Miners Refuse to Reopen Parley

PREPARE TO ACT IN STRIKE

Government Assures People of Plenty of Substitute Fuel

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 22.—The mine operators today had not given up hope of a resumption of negotiations.

Under the motion of adjournment, Samuel D. Warriner, the operators' representative, pointed out that either side may make application to James S. Gorman, secretary of the joint conference acting for the United States Coal Commission, for a reopening of the meeting.

Warriner would not comment upon the possibility of the operators making such a request. "The miners will not ask a re-opening," flatly asserted John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America. While Lewis reiterated that "all was off" as a result of the breaking up of the conference, Warriner took the position that the break was, in reality, only a recess.

"I cannot believe the negotiations will end here," said Warriner.

Both operators and miners were in long-distance communication with their representatives in Washington, and were believed to have information as to what action the United States Coal Commission might be expected to take.

Lewis and Warriner disagree as

LYNN AUTOIST IS BEATEN AND ROBBED

Roy A. Goodwin, 24 years old, of No. 10 Olney place, Lynn, reported to the Lynn police early today that he had been assaulted and robbed of $30 by four men with whom he had taken an automobile ride to Salem.

Goodwin said while he was examining the engine of the machine in search of supposed engine trouble, he was hit over the head and knocked unconscious in front of the Peter Thomas Farm on Highland avenue, Salem.

He told the police he was standing at Burrill and Essex streets,

OWES $5,394 IN CUSTOMS FEE; WOMAN SWOONS WHEN TOLD

New York, Aug. 22.—Three women arriving here were required to pay $14,814 in duty and fines to obtain articles brought into this country from Europe which, according tto customs officials, they failed to declare. One of them fainted when told what she must pay.

Mrs. Dudley Olcott, 2nd, prominent New York society woman, paid $3,045 to recover a diamond bracelet, a fur coat and several gowns held by the authorities since Aug. 1.

Mrs. J. J. Johnson, wife of a Chicago builder, fainted when told she must pay $5,394 to release articles worth half this amount which it was said she failed to declare.

Mrs. Lina Skothtscka, of Brooklyn, paid $375 to recover a sealskin coat which she said had cost her $187.

REWARD FAILS TO FIND GEMS LOST BY GOVERNOR'S WIFE

Albany, N. Y. Aug. 22 (I. N. S.).—Despite an offer of a liberal reward made today by Governor Alfred E. Smith, a $5,000 diamond studded bracelet, lost by Mrs. Smith within four blocks of the executive mansion, had not been returned.

The jewel was presented to the Governor as a Christmas gift last year.

Mrs. Smith lost the bracelet while walking to a drug store. Later the Governor, Mrs. Smith, the Smith children and attaches at the mansion made a futile search along the street.

MA AND PA'S DANCE STEPS OF 40 YEARS AGO TO RETURN

Los Angeles, Aug. 22.—Dancing steps of forty years ago, to which mother and dad used to shake their twinkling feet, are coming back.

Fenton Bott, of Dayton, O., and director of the American National Association of Dancing Masters, said so at the opening session of the fortieth convention of the organization here. Bott said:

"Dances, like skirts, go up and down. We are now going to make dances go down to the measurement of forty years ago."

Bott declared the reversion to the old-time steps would bring about a revolution in popular music.

PIRATE'S VICTIM IN HOME PORT

Rum Schooner Shot Up Off Rockport Returns to Yarmouth, N. S.

The Nova Scotian schooner J. Scott Hankenson, whose captain and cook were shot when she was boarded by rum pirates off Rockport Monday, appeared at anchor today off Yarmouth, N. S., according to dispatches from that port.

Because of the heavy sea it was impossible to communicate with the craft, which has been sought by the United States coast guard ever since the shooting.

Captain Arthur Moore and Cook Harry Harm were landed at Gloucester by fishermen who answered a distress signal, and the mate apparently then sailed the Hankenson back to Nova Scotia as ordered by the captain when the latter was taken ashore wounded.

The scuttled pirate power boat has been recovered and identified. The speedy motor boat in which the pirates fled has also been found and identified.

Most of the members of the pirate crew are Gloucester men. The leader is believed to be the former manager of a New Bedford boxer. Another, a Gloucester man, is short, stocky and blond. A lame man who was a hanger-on in sporting circles is also sought.

Detailed descriptions of the eight men have been broadcast through police channels. Arrests are expected soon.

MAIL JUMP DELAYED BY FOGS

Westbound Flier Waits for Clearing; Eastbound Plane Is Nearing Cleveland

Chicago, Aug. 22 (A.P.)—[illegible] Lewis, in the eastbound mail plane from Cheyenne, reached the air mail field here at 8:40 a. m., Central time (10:40 a. m., Boston time.)

Planes were changed and four minutes after the arrival of Lewis, Pilot L. Wagner took off with the pouches of mail for Cleveland on the flight to New York.

Cheyenne, Wyo. at about the same time Pilot H. G. Boonstra carrying the westbound mail after taking off on the next leg of the flight was forced to return by the fog. He planned to resume flight later in the day.

The night flying experiment of the postal service in a test of 28-hour service from coast to coast proved successful except for unusual weather conditions at Laramie, which held the airman fogbound.

Daylight today found the westbound relay moving westward almost on scheduled time. The eastbound mail skipped a gap of fifty miles between Laramie and Cheyenne, Wyo., when heavy clouds made advance impossible.

Three times the pilot tried to skirt the low-hanging fog, and each time was forced to turn back because he could not discern his direction.

Pilot H. G. Boonstra left Cheyenne at [illegible] o'clock, Mountain time (8 a. m., Boston time), westbound, 40 minutes behind schedule. Pilot Jack Knight arrived at 2:50 a. m., Mountain time, an hour 25 minutes ahead of schedule, but due to bad weather the relay pilot awaited dawn.

Jack Knight, the fourth pilot on the westbound flight, ran ahead of schedule with a perfect record for the westbound flight.

FIVE-DAY TEST.

He left North Platte, Neb., at 1:47 A.M. central time (3:47 A.M. Boston time).

Pilot Frank Yager early today crossed part of Nebraska, having passed the westbound plane near Grand Island about 1 o'clock, central time.

The success of the flights, scheduled for the next five days, will de-

Dancer Will Accept $13,000 Alimony

Agrees on Settlement if She Wins Divorce From Her Playwright Mate

BESSIE CLAYTON

Dancer who has agreed to accept $13,000 alimony if she is granted full divorce from Julian Mitchell, the playwright. The couple were married in 1894. She charges Mitchell deserted her in 1910.

New York, Aug. 22.—According to stipulation filed today before Vice-Chancellor John Bentley in Jersey City, Bessie Clayton, dancer, has agreed to accept $13,000 alimony and $1,000 in settlement of all claims if she wins a final decree of divorce against Julian Mitchell, the playwright.

The alimony would be paid in monthly installments, although if Mr. Mitchell should happen to be financially embarrassed he is given twenty days in which to pay.

In drawing up the agreement Miss Clayton releases her dower rights in favor of her daughter, Priscilla Mitchell, twenty-one, who lives with her father.

The first installment, according to the paper, will be made when the nisi decree is obtained, six months before the final decree becomes effective. If no final decree is found, the initial payments made by Mr. Mitchell will be returned to him.

Miss Clayton is to file her release of dower rights with the Commercial Trust Company of Jersey City, which institution is to be the deposi-

SHIP WITH 600 ABOARD IS TOWED TO PORT

Steamer Plymouth Drifts for Hours in High Gale Off New Haven Shore

After having tossed about helplessly in Long Island Sound during the terrific storm early today the steamer Plymouth of the Fall River line is being towed to New London where her passengers, en route from New York, will be taken by train to their destinations.

The Plymouth was disabled by machinery trouble about six miles off Falkner's Island, near New Haven. First news of her difficulty was contained in a radio message received by the Merritt, Chapman & Scott Co. of New London, asking for aid.

DRIFTS DURING NIGHT.

A wrecking crew was at once dispatched to the aid of the big steamer in the tug Guardsman and the latest word in New London was that the disabled craft would reach that port about noon.

There are about 600 passengers on the steamer, scores of them from Boston. Under schedule the steamer was due at Fall River about 7 o'clock this morning. Boston-bound passengers would have arrived here by train by 8:40 o'clock.

The nature of the machinery

Upper figures represent planes in eastbound flight and below are shown planes in westbound flight, with stopping places for fuel indicated. The planes left New York and San Francisco at the same time yesterday and passed each other today about 3 a. m., Boston time, near Grand Island, Neb. The schedule provided for stops at Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Salt Lake City, Cheyenne and Reno. The country was divided into three zones, New York-Chicago; Chicago-Cheyenne, and Cheyenne-San Francisco. The darkened area represents the zone in which the night flight was made and is between Chicago and Cheyenne. ## OTHER PLANS TO PROTECT PEOPLE to what actually brought the break.

"It was plain question of wages; Warriner said he could not and would not pay the miners more money," Lewis said. "His mind was made up—there was no sense in going on."

"Arbitration; the operators' plea that wages, the check-off and all other demands by the miners be submitted to arbitration. The miners refused, that's the true story of the break-off," Warriner said.

Lewis' comment on this statement was that the miners had lost confidence in arbitration.

REPEATS STRIKE THREAT.

"We will not arbitrate," he said, "and if a new contract is not signed by midnight, August 31, all work in the anthracite field will stop."

Warriner said he "proposed to do everything in his power to avoid a suspension of work." He said the next move would not be announced until the commission is given a chance to act.

Lewis said any action the commission might take would not prevent the miners from striking unless the new wage and working contract is signed before Sept. 1.

Lewis added that he did not know when the miners would leave Atlantic City.

"We will stay today, anyway," he said.

Warriner declared that as long as there was a hope of resuming the conference, the operators would be on hand.

In spite of the apparent seriousness of the situation and that, outwardly it appears a certainty that the completion of a new agreement by Sept. 1 is impossible, the leaders of the miners do not expect a strike.

BOTH LOOK TO COOLIDGE.

They do not believe for one thing that President Coolidge will permit a strike to take place. If a strike does occur, however, they are prepared, they say to meet it. They give the impression they have utmost confidence in such event of scoring a victory for the men.

The union heads do not believe that President Coolidge will go so far as to take steps for government seizure of the mines, should an emergency develop.

Even the threat of injunction or other court proceedings, does not now appear to disturb the miners. Nothing, it was said, 'will deter a 100 percent strike of anthracite miners should a strike become necessary."

It was asserted, further, that drastic action by Attorney General Daugherty "would be the one thing, more than any other, which would align the entire organized labor movement solidly with the miners' cause."

New England Will Get Soft Coal

Washington Aug. 22.—The government is prepared to divert sufficient quantities of bituminous coal and coke, suitable for anthracite substitute, into the anthracite consuming territories, which include all New England.

That measure was decided on when it became apparent the much heralded hard coal strike would be an actuality September 1.

It is hoped, by this diversion of coal, to prevent suffering in the wake of a hard coal strike, and the government further plans to take other measures to safeguard the welfare of the people.

It is indicated, however, that President Coolidge might see fit, after he is informed which side is responsible for the breaking off of negotiations at Atlantic City, to summon that group to the White House and tell them face to face that the government holds them at fault and that they must take the blame for whatever crisis is precipitated on the country.

When word of the breaking up of the Atlantic City meeting reached the Coal Commissiin, its chairman, John Hays Hammond, hastened to the White House where he went into conference with President Coolidge. They were closeted for half an hour.

HAMMOND SEES COOLIDGE.

Chairman Hammond returned to his offices and assembled the other members of the Commissiin now in the city for a hurried session that lasted forty-five minutes. Meanwhile long distance communication had been established with Atlantic City and further details were obtained. Commissioners Charles P. Neill, George Otis Smith and Former Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall were present in addition to the chairman.

As the members came out of this conference, Chairman Hammond declared:

"There is nothing to be said now. We have been discussing contingencies with the President. In a day or two there will be something to say."

trouble which left the big steamer to the mercy of the elements has not been definitely established, but early reports were that her high pressure crank pin had been broken. The accident occurred about midnight.

Falkner's Island is about 45 miles from New London.

NO INJURIES REPORTED.

Owing to heavy traffic on the line at this season of the year two steamers have been making nightly sailings from New York and Fall River.

Officials of the line announced that the steamer Commonwealth would sail from Fall River tonight, taking the place of the Plymouth, which is expected to be laid up for a week.

There was nothing in early reports to indicate that any persons were injured as a result of the accident.

PIRATE VICTIM IN HOME PORT

City, was the craft from which the pirates boarded the schooner. It was towed into shore by fishermen.

John Grillo of Gloucester is the owner of the "low-laying gray speed boat" described to the police by Cook Harm as the boat in which the pirates fled.

About the time of the fight Grillo reported to the Gloucester police that his speed boat, capable of making sixteen knots an hour, was missing. The day after the raid Grillo reported that he had found his boat.

GIVES VAGUE ANSWER.

Questioned by the police, Grillo said he guessed "the boat must have been misplaced." Where he found it has not been learned. Grillo's boat answers the description of the craft in which the Pirates made their get away and the police are confident that it was used by the pirates.

The scuttled power sloop was owned in Perth Amboy, N. J., under the name "Greyhound," and was used to carry passengers out to Keyport, N. J. The boat was built at Newark, N. J., in 1902, with a sixteen horse power engine. Today it has a forty-horse power engine.

Two men from the Attorney General's office are here today investigating. They have questioned Cook Harm. Physicians would not permit them to question Captain Moore, who is in a critical condition.

Aboard the scuttled pirate sloop, the Federal men found a small wooden box nailed in an abscure corner of the forecastle, with the name "J. F. Silvers & Bro., Cranbury, N. J.," stencilled on the side.

EXPECTED MORE LOOT.

While certain the pirate sloop was originally a New Jersey boat, the Federal men believe there is no such person as "Joseph Jones" of New York, under whose name the boat is now registered.

The pirates expected to find a huge sum of money on the schooner, believed that the accumulated earnings of months were in the safe. The actual haul is said to be less than $100.

The Nova Scotia schooner had sold 500 cases of Scotch whiskey over the rail at $80 a case. Two thousand, five hundred cases remained when she put about and sailed for her home port after the captain and the cook had been taken ashore. The $35,000 proceeds from the liquor sales of this trip had been deposited in a Boston bank on the morning of the raid.

GOT ONLY POCKET CASH.

Only the pocket money of the crew was secured. Four hundred dollars in the captain's sea bag was missed, and is now under Captain Moore's pillow in the Addison Gilbert Hospital here.

Reports that the pirates were New York gunmen are discredited by local and Federal officials. All are convinced the raid was made by local men, whom the police declare they can identify on sight.

The night after the pirate raid, several rum running boats, including sailing and steaming vessels, laying outside the three-mile limit for the past two weeks, weighed anchor and sailed for ports unknown. As a consequence Gloucester tipsters bemoan the impending shortage and the soaring cost of bootleg liquor during the celebration.

Captain Moore has asked for his wife, Mrs. Ethel A. Moore, of Westport, Nova Scotia, and his six children. They are understood to be on their way here.

termine whether the Postoffice Department will attempt to maintain day and night flying from coast-to-coast throughout the year.

The schedule for the day and night flights was so arranged that treacherous mountain regions, both East and West, were to be crossed in daylight. The night flying was over the prairie country of the Mississippi and Missouri valleys.

As dusk settled over the 885 mile stretch between Chicago and Cheyenne last evening illumination of the first night airway in the history of world aviation was begun.

At each of the air mail fields in Chicago, Iowa City, Omaha, North Platte and Cheyenne, 36-inch electric beacons revolved around the horizon three times a minute, casting a 450,000,000 candlepower beam 150 miles.

34 EMERGENCY FIELDS.

Another light of equal power flooded the runways of the fields, in the center of which were piercing clusters of red lamps. Upon the roof of the hangars floated the fabric cones which to the pilot are keys alike to the direction of the wind and its velocity.

At 34 points along the way were emergency fields and from each of these an 18-inch incandescent electric beacon, mounted on a fifty-foot tower cast a 5,000,000 candle power beam around the horizon every ten seconds.

In between at three mile distances, 5,000 candle power acetylene gas beacons flashed 150 times a minute.

The machinery functioning for this history-making demonstration has been a year in the making. Its similarity to the organization followed in railway operation is marked.

A modern railway division is about 250 miles; the air mail is 600. Block signals and switch lamps for the railway are parallelled in the air mail by beacons and flood lights.

Lynn about midnight, when a machine obtaining four men drove up. Three of the men he described as being dressed like milkmen, while the fourth was much more well groomed.

They asked him if he desired to take a ride, and Goodwin said he accepted the invitation. The party drove to Salem and were on the way back when supposed engine trouble developed. Goodwin said he and one of the men were looking over the engine when he was struck on the head with what he believed to be a piece of rubber tubing. He regained consciousness lying in the grass by the side of the road. The police are searching for the four men.

5 WELLS DRAINED TO FIGHT SEABROOK FIRE

Salisbury Beach, Aug. 22.—Five wells were drained by bucket brigades in subduing a $3,000 fire in the home of Silas Walton at Seabrook, near Salisbury Beach. The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil stove. Hundreds of shoe operatives from the F. E. Adams Shoe Company left their work to subdue the flames and prevent the fire from spreading to the frame houses in the community where hundreds of shoe workers live. The flames were under control when the Salisbury fire department arrived.

GIRL IN POISON MYSTERY IS IDENTIFIED

The mystery girl who gave her name at City Hospital, where she was taken after swallowing poison in a Dover street drug store, as Gertrude Haggerty, has been identified as Mrs. Gertrude Helen Chiochico, twenty-four-years old, of No. 31 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown.

The young wife, married five years ago to Peter Chiochico of Medford, parted from him last Winter. Chiochico was injured at that time and the wife, also seriously ill, went to live with her mother, where she remained. She has no children. Her maiden name was Gertrude Helen Haggerty.

Doctors at the hospital said she might die but she withheld her married name. Mrs. Chiochico went home from work Tuesday evening, ate supper and left home apparently in good spirits to visit a girl friend in Roxbury. According to this girl, they were on Dover street when Mrs. Chiochico [illegible] a drug store and ran in. Then her [illegible] and she was carried [illegible] the hospital. Her friend said she had acted strangely lately.

According to the wife's mother and other relatives, she saw her husband frequently and was on friendly terms with him, although he was forbidden to go to see her at home.

DESCENDANT OF BONAPARTE'S MUST PAY

New York, Aug. 22.—Judgment has been filed here in City Court against Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, a descendant of the French Bonapartes and widely known socially in New York, Washington and Newport, for $1,078 in favor of H. Howard Barker, a merchant of Newport, R. I.

The complaint recites that between June 1 and October 1, 1922, Barker supplied "certain goods" to Bonaparte at his residence in Newport, and that papers were served upon the defendant at his town house, No. 772 Park avenue on June 20 last.

Since he failed to appear when the case was called to trial the judgment was obtained by default.

Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte is a great-great grandson of Jerome Bonaparte King of Westphalia who married Miss Elizbeth Patterson of Baltimore much against the wishes of his brother Napoleon Bonaparte, the French Emperor.

He is a nephew of the late Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore.

To do anything in this country and "get away with it" you must do it on a big scale.

---

THE CHEAPEST thing is not wheat, German marks or rubles. It is human life. The International News tells about John Miller of West Virginia, who sold his wife and seven children for $100 to Michael Davis. You can buy a human baby any day for less than you would have to pay for a second class pup.

---

WORKING ON railroad tracks from the Pacific to Chicago are groups of dark skinned Mexicans. They are good workers, good citizens, welcome here, the more the better. Would it not be a good idea also, to admit ambitious men and women from Europe, of the kind that built up this country? Millions of ambitious, desirable workers are anxious to come. Yet theirs is not real wealth except human intelligence. We shut it out, while we eagerly welcome and store away the gold of Europe, which has only imaginary value. Such folly would be unworthy of a Kaffir tribe.

MISS BLACK TO BE FETED BY FRIENDS

MARGARET L. BLACK

Miss Margaret L. Black of Dorchester, winner of the Boston American Charming Girl Contest, who goes to Atlantic City as "Miss Boston" to represent New England in the annual National Beauty Show and Bathing Girl Contest, will be tendered a reception by her friends next Tuesday on the eve of her departure.

The reception will be held at the Crescent Garden Ball Room at Revere Beach. The Crescent Garden twelve-piece orchestra will provide dance music from 8:30 o'clock until 11:45 o'clock. During the intermissions, entertainment will be given by the friends of the popular beauty, details of which are now being arranged.

All the young women who entered the contest, their escorts and invited guests at the reception will be presented to Miss Black.

Many of the contestants have requested to be presented to Boston's candidate for the "Miss America" title and have hinted they have a pleasant surprise in store for Miss Black.

Miss Black will compete at Atlantic City with girls from sixty American and Canadian cities, selected in contests similar to the one just concluded by the Boston American in Boston.

Miss Mary K. Campbell, who entered last year's contest as "Miss Columbus" and was named "Miss America" by a jury of America's foremost artists, will again enter the contest.

FIGHT COLLEGE TOWN PETTING PARTIES

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 22.—A request from County Attorney Roland Boynton, asking aid in the prosecution of three Emporia youths, caused Attorney General C. C. Griffith today to assign a deputy to the case and issue a warning to Kansas college towns that they must suppress "petting parties and clean up."

The three youths are charged with attempt to attack two girls while on an automobile ride.

BOY LURED FROM HOME BY VENUS ADONIS STATUE

New Rochelle, N. Y., Aug. 22.—When the police put a canvas over Frederic MacMonnies' marble group, "Venus and Adonis," they spread its fame even to the confines of Waterbury, Ct., and Paul Kamickis, sixteen and artistically inclined, mounted his bicycle and rode all the way here to see the famed group that offended the Grundy family of this town.

Paul was arrested today when he appeared in front of the Public Library and insisted that he should be given a glimpse of the group. The policeman on duty took him in for vagrancy. Paul says he hopes to be a great sculptor, and he is sure there is inspiration in the piece.

Meanwhile, the policeman today was busy shooing the curious away, and when a woman insisted on raising the canvas "just for a peek" she was told that when the group reached the Metropolitan Museum in New York she could peek as she wished.

Speaking of the impending deportation of Venus, Adonis and their dog from New Rochelle, Frederick Dana Marsh, famous mural painter, said today:

"It is too bad that a small handful of people should have messed up our perfectly fine and proper exhibition, which we have brought here as an educational feature for the public. The decent people of the community have to suffer for it."

FIND OCEAN BOTTOM RAISED 2¼ MILES

London, Aug. 22.—Officers of the Eastern Telegraph Company's ship repairing a broken cable between St. Helena and Capetown report that the ocean bed has risen to within three-quarters of a mile of the surface at a point where the chart showed depth to be three miles. The soundings for the chart were taken in 1889. The discovery suggests a recent submarine convulsion.

EDISON ILL AT MICHIGAN CAMP

Ishpeming Mich., Aug. 22.—Thomas A. Edison, in camp with Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, near here, was reported as not feeling well, last night. The illness was reported as slight. Mr. Edison has kept secretly to the caravan during the trip through the upper peninsula.

SIXTH AMERICAN DIES IN TOURISTS' TRAGEDY

Nice, Aug. 22. (AP) — Alexander Sondheimer of Muskogee, Okla., who was among those injured in the automobile accident near Guillaumes, died today, bringing to six the number of Americans who met death in the crash. His wife was also killed.

MOTORIST NEAR DEATH IN CRASH

Milford Man's Car Stalls on Tracks as Fast Freight Roars Into View

East Brookfield, Aug. 22.—Mitchell R. Stone, Jr., of Milford, narrowly escaped death today when he leaped from his automobile, stalled on the Boston and Albany tracks at East Brookfield station, as a fast freight struck the car and hurled it, a tangled mass of wreckage, 200 yards away.

Unhurt save for minor cuts about the legs, young Stone regained his feet just as the freight locomotive roared by. The train was westbound from Boston to Springfield.

Stone was enroute from Detroit, Michigan, where he is employed, to his parents' home in Milford.

He had driven this machine on the railroad tracks from a street approaching the East Brookfield station in the belief that the roadway continued on the opposite side.

When he learned of his mistake he heard the freight approaching. In haste to get out of its path, Stone stalled his engine and was unable to make the self-starter work.

From a house near the scene of the collision Stone notified his parents of the accident and members of his family started over the road to bring him home.

GAS AT 6 CENTS IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Aug. 22.—Gasoline dropped to six cents a gallon at one service station here. Roy [illegible], the proprietor, explained that he was able to offer it at that price because he was interested in a small refinery which was experimenting with a new process for making the fuel. He said he could make a small profit at that price. The lowest price at which he previously sold it was nine cents.

Other stations in and around Los Angeles are selling at varying prices, the highest being 17 cents.

CHARLESTOWN MAN KILLED UNDER TRUCK

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 22.—Philip Keough of Charlestown, in attempting to climb to the top of a moving truck while passing through Bedford, fell to the road and was killed when the wheels of the truck passed over him.

AGED PAIR REFUSE TO PAY TAX

Natick Sisters Emulate Tea Party Ancestor; Say Home Assessment Unjust

Natick, Aug. 22.—Nearly 150 years ago Samuel Morse, first cousin to George Washington and founder of this town, went down to Griffin's wharf in Boston and helped throw King George's tea into Boston harbor.

Samuel Morse thus gave vent to his resentment at unjust taxation.

Today the Misses Lizzie and Electa Morse, great-granddaughters of the intrepid old colonist and the last of the Natick Morses, are waging bitter warfare with the town fathers.

And they are emulating their forebear in so doing by fighting what they term "unjust taxation."

TOWN IS SPLIT.

All Natick has taken sides in the fight. For didn't Samuel Morse buy Natick from Indians for two rusty old flintlocks and five jugs of wine? And haven't members of the family given the town its public library, its hospital, its Congregational church—in all hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property?

He did, and they have, and because of the generosity of descendants of Samuel Morse, the Misses Lizzie and Electa have many proponents in the tax controversy.

But John Ahern, town collector of taxes vows they'll pay what's due—taxes on the old Morse homestead in West Natick. The weather beaten, crumbling old structure stands on a quarter acre of ground far out from the business centre.

COURT RULES FOR TOWN.

Since 1920, according to Mr. Ahern, he has tried in vain to collect taxes from the two old ladies.

Last Saturday a justice in District Court ordered judgment entered in favor of the town for $242, the same being the 1920 taxes on the Morse homestead.

Miss Lizzie Morse gave her side of the controversy to an American reporter:

"They've taxed us unjustly. The town of Natick has assessed this old property, which has been in the Morse family for generations, for a sum far in excess of its worth. My sister and I intend to fight this matter to the last ditch. We are descended from a line of fighters and we will not give quarter."

SISTER SHOT INTRUDER.

In December, 1898, Lizzie Morse shot and killed a man in defence of her home and family. She was tried for murder and acquitted, and as she says herself: "My fame was wired all over the world.

"It happened on the afternoon of December 20," Lizzie Morse told a Boston American reporter. "My mother, sister Electa and brother Ira were seated in the kitchen when Lewis Perry and a man named Arnold Stoppin wheeled up here on bicycles.

"They pounded on the front door here—you can still see the marks—and tried to get in.

"'We've been promised $1,000 to kill you and we're going to do it—let us in' they cried." Of course, we refused and tried to shoo them off. But they shied heavy rocks at the house, tried to break the door in and finally, Perry entered through a front room window.

ACQUITTED AT TRIAL.

"All of us stood transfixed with fear, only a second though. I ran to a closet, seized a loaded pistol and fired straight at Perry's breast. He fell dead at my feet with three bullets in his heart.

"I was indicted and tried for murder. But of course, I acted in defence and I was acquitted."

Though they say they are poor now—having a hard time to make both ends meet in fact—Natick merchants with whom they deal state that the Morse sisters are "well fixed with ready cash."

Presentation of currency, musty and old, gives rise to the story that the Morse sisters have thousands of dollars hidden away in the crumbling old structure which has sheltered them from babyhood.

"No such thing! If they think we've got it, let them come and find it," Lizzie Morse replied to this suggestion of hoarded wealth. "We have only enough to support us in our last days."

In Fight to Hold Home

MORSE SISTERS, NATICK HOME, AND TAX COLLECTOR

Above, Miss Electra Morse, below, Miss Lizzie Morse. On right, Natick tax collector John Ahern who secured a judgment against the sisters for $240 back taxes on their old, run down homestead, seen in photo. Like their Boston Tea Party ancestor the two sisters are defying "unjust" taxation and refuse to pay.

FRANCE TO HOLD RUHR TILL PAID

Refuses to Withdraw Troops and Rejects British Plan to Readjust Indemnity

Paris, Aug. 22 (A.P.)—Germany can obtain evacuation of the Ruhr only by paying reparations, she can assure attenuation of the rigors of the occupation by ceasing passive resistance and she can win no reduction in the amount she owes France unless the allied creditors of France see fit to give France credit for equal amounts on her war debts.

These are the conclusions of Premier Poincare's reply to Marquis Curzon's reparations note of recent date. The French government also expresses its belief that the Allies can agree on methods of bringing about the execution of the treaty by continuing courteous negotiations.

PROPOSALS REJECTED.

As for the inter-Allied war debts, France holds that a settlement of this question should wait upon final payment by Germany of fifty billion gold marks in reparations comprised in the A and B bonds.

The British proposals for a re-estimate of Germany's capacity for payment, and Lord Curzon's suggestion that the question of the legality of the occupation of the Ruhr be referred to The Hague, are rejected, and the French position is reaffirmed as remaining unchanged.

Premier Poincare in the reply stresses the priority of reparations over other war costs as represented by the inter-allied debts.

"France never repudiated the debts she contracted during the war, either to England or to America, in the interest of the common victory," the note asserts.

ACKNOWLEDGES DEBTS.

France is also the creditor of the other allies for five or six billion gold marks, the summary continues, but "There can be no doubt but that in the minds of those who drafted the treaty, damages to persons and property were to be granted priority over war costs."

MYSTERY OF CANOE NOT SOLVED

Police Seek Missing Boy, After Blood Stains Are Found in Craft

Worcester, Aug. 22.—Every island in the south end of Lake Quinsigamond and every cove has been visited by Lake Quinsigamond police patrol, in an effort to clear up the mystery surrounding the finding of a pool of blood in the bottom of a canoe.

Two boys hired the canoe and only one returned in it.

Cottagers at the lake have been interviewed by the police without avail.

Two youngsters, one 14 years old and the other about 18 years old, hired a canoe at Winchester's boat house. The younger lad left a gold watch and $2 as deposit after the older lad admitted not having sufficient funds for it.

The older lad returned the canoe late at night. When questioned about the younger boy he declared he had left him at the lower end of the lake, and he would not be back.

The following morning when boat house employes were cleaning the boats in use the night before, they found blood in the bottom of one canoe and called detectives. The latter declared it was human blood, and they started a search for the two lads, but so far have been unable to find either.

AMERICAN BUYS FAMOUS PAINTING

London, Aug. 22.—One of Sir Joshua Reynolds' most famous paintings, "The Young Fortune Teller," and another of the great artists's pictures—the portrait of Viscountess Crosbie—have been bought from the collection of Lord Glenconner by an American collector, says the Daily Express today. The name of the purchaser has not been made public. The newspaper adds that the price paid was "fabulous."

PERSHING WILL REVIEW DEVENS UNITS FRIDAY

Camp Devens, Aug. 22.—General John J. Pershing will review the student soldiers at New England's citizens' military training camp and the regulars garrisoned here Friday. While here, General Pershing will be the guest of Brigadier-General Malvern Hill Barnum. He will inspect the troops in the morning and take an afternoon train for Worcester.

Governor's day will be observed Thursday and a special program will be carried out, with the chief executives of all the New England States expected as guests.

The citizen soldiers have been practicing reviews during the past few days. Their improvement during the past week has been remarkable and Colonel Frank C. Bolles, commanding, feels that the young men will not suffer by comparison with the regulars when the young men parade Friday.

Thousands are expected to be here for the Governors' day program. The Governors are expected to arrive about 3 p. m. and the review will be held at 4 o'clock. The five other Governors are to be guests of Governor Cox in the morning and after a business meeting and luncheon will come by motor to camp, accompanied by Major-General Andre W. Brewster.

HOTEL MAN HIT HER, CHARGES DOCTOR'S WIFE

Sylvan Beach, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Mrs. T. W. Edgar, wife of a New York physician noted for rejuvenation operations, is nursing a swollen jaw today in Cavena Hospital, and William Russell, proprietor of a hotel at which she was a guest, is out on bail, as a result of having struck her, it is said, for having criticized the food in the hotel.

Russell, whose bail was set at $1,000, will be called to court. His only comment was:

"Wait until the hearing, and Sylvan Beach will have still more to talk about."

Mrs. M. E. Lamphrey, mother of Mrs. Edgar, said the trouble started when Mrs. Edgar criticized the food at Russell's Hotel. Then followed a dispute and Mrs. Edgar was ordered out.

Later, according to Mrs. Lamphrey, Russell came to the new abode of Mrs. Edgar and after declaring: 'I've come to smash your jaw," proceeded to do so.

Mrs. Edgar, it is said, has figured in several sensational occurrences. Several years ago she was robbed of thousands of dollars' worth of gems in a taxicab in Central Park. A few months ago she, with her husband and a friend, bested highwaymen in a gun fight while motoring.

Dr. Edgar is said to be on a fishing trip with Police Commissioner Enright of New York and Senator Royal S. Coneland.

GIRL FINED, K.K. TELLS SHERIFF TO REFUND

Brattleboro, Vt., Aug. 22.—Sheriff Frank L. Wellman has been ordered by the Ku Klux Klan to return within ten days a fine recently paid by a young woman.

ECONOMY RULE STARTS FIGHT ON LORING

The first formidable fight against Homer Loring, the State Commissioner of Administration, who is going about with a pruning knife looking for a chance to lop off State expenses, was started by a score of prominent and aggressive State officials who assert they cannot operate their own autos on State business for six cents a mile.

Homer Loring

For several years, the State has allowed ten cents a mile for all State officials and employes who use their own cars in traveling on State business.

Loring's cut to six cents a mile has raised ructions. Both officials and employes have created such a fuss against him that Governor Cox and the Governor's Council have allowed them to appeal over Loring's head. The Governor and Council will hear their protests nex week.

Officials who receive as high as $8,000 a year and some who spend $10,000,000 of the State's money annually are among the prominent and responsible kickers against Loring's order. Richard K. Conant, the State commissioner of public welfare, is said to head the complaining department chiefs.

Many of the employes have refused to use their cars for the State any more. They say they can't afford it.

Department officials say they are enabled by the use of their own cars to visit several towns a day, whereas if they rode on the railroad they would be limited to a single town, would charge the State for railroad fare and would also hire an auto to take them to the centres of towns which are distantly located from railroad stations.

Up to the time of Mr. Loring's six-cent order, the State officials have been dumb. The sole exception has been Frank A. Goodwin, State Registrar of Motor Vehicles, who told Loring to print the auto handbook the way Goodwin wanted it done or he would refuse to accept it.

TSEKOS ARREST DUE TO BRAINY MEDFORD COPS

With George Nonis Tsekos, alleged slayer of his wife and her mother, back in New Hampshire, Massachusetts now regards the double killing as a closed incident, as far as the State is concerned.

But the residents of Medford and of Greater Boston are still speaking in the highest of terms of the efficiency of the Medford Police department in apprehending Tsekos within a few minutes after they became aware he was a "probable murderer."

The slightest "hitch" on the part of any of the superior officers or patrolmen, on that night, would have allowed Tsekos to slip out of Medford to possible freedom in some isolated place.

Patrolman William F. Sullivan was the first Medford officer to enter the case. He was told, by Charles A. Clark, who drove the car containing the two dismembered bodies, of the probable crime. Quick as a flash, Sullivan notified headquarters and then investigated. Sergeant P. Frank Ward, on duty at headquarters, sent out the alarm to all officers. They were instantly on the lookout.

FAST WORK.

Ten minutes later Patrolman Frank O'Gorman arrested Tsekos as he was racing for a Boston-bound car.

Chief Welch has been many times congratulated on the co-operation of the members of his department in their clever work.

ADMITS THEFT TO EDUCATE CHILDREN

New York, Aug. 22.—Arrested and charged with the theft of $10,000 in dresses and opera cloaks from Lord & Taylor's Department Store, Mrs. Florence Fischer, a widow, confessed to detectives that she was lured to steal by a passionate desire to put her two children through school.

Eighty dresses and opera cloaks were found in her flat. Mrs. Fischer

FEAR 85 JAP SAILORS LOST AS NEW SUBMARINE SINKS

Tokio, Aug. 22 (P).—The newest Japanese submarine, just returned from a short trial trip, sank at the Kawaski Docks at Kobe, and eighty-five members of her crew are believed to have lost their lives.

The captain, chief officer, five dock yard engineers and four other naval officers were saved.

The cause of the accident has not been determined. Submarine Engineer Yanagawa, who was aboard the vessel as a representative of the builders, was among those saved. He said the submarine had completed her trial trip and come to the surface when, listing heavily, she started to sink. The captain ordered all the openings closed.

Before his orders could be carried out, however, the water rushed in and the vessel sank.

LEATRICE JOY MAKES GARB FOR $20.75

Leatrice Joy

LEATRICE JOY has discovered that expensive Parisian models in women's wear may be reproduced at very low cost. During the preparation of "The Silent Partner" she created a reproduction of one of the latest imported outfits in good materials for $20.75. The hat was a turban made of gray straw cloth, with two black plumes. The actual cost was 75 cents. The gown, patterned after a Poiret, would ordinarily cost $275. Miss Joy's estimates in the reproduction were: three yards of grey crepe, $10.00; two yards of black satin, $6.00; one yard of white satin, $3.00; and hooks, eyes, thread etc., $1.00. And there you have a grand total of $20.75.

TO MARGARET LEAHY, winner of the prize for England's most beautiful girl, falls the glory of reaching stardom in her first picture, "Three Ages," in which she plays the feminine lead to Buster Keaton's comical heroics. Miss Leahy came to this country with a record for beauty and just naturally drifted into the films. Her beauty seemed too pronounced to be set aside in minor roles—especially when it was discovered that she could act.

DOROTHY DEVORE and a large company of Christie comedians have spent twenty-one days on the U. S. S. California flagship of the Pacific Fleet, where they were granted the freedom of the decks in shooting a sea going comedy in which Miss Devore, as the bride of a young naval officer suddenly ordered to duty, gets on board a battleship and falls into many weird and laughable situations. This is said to be the first time the American navy has extended such wide-spread courtesy to a picture making company.

Do You Know That—

Goethe took fifty years over his famous dramatic poem, "Faust"; he was a young man when he began it; he cast and re-cast it; and he finished the second part only just before his death in 1832.

The average farm laborer gets through life with a vocabulary of 800 or 900 words. The average business man manages quite well with 4,000 or 5,000 words, whereas Shakespeare used over 20,000 words.

Londoners took out about 176,432 dog licenses in 1922.

A recent attempt to imitate daylight by means of incandescent electric lamps has succeeded in correcting the light from the lamp filament by coloring the bulb. The bulbs are made of a special blue glass that absorbs the excess of red and yellow light rays.

In Foulness Island, off the marshy coast of Essex, fifty miles from London, strangers are regarded almost with suspicion, and the butcher only has meat once a week.

NURSES' TRAINING SCHOOL COURSES

The season of 1923 and 1924 at the Cambridge Training School for Nurses, Inc., at No. 715 Broadway, Cambridge, starts with the most promising outlook for many years. The Massachusetts State law requirements for nurses are carefully complied with. Excellent training in surgical technique is obtained at the Brookline General Hospital, No. 101 Summit avenue, Corey Hill, and a large maternity experience at Broadway Maternity Hospital, Cambridge. Other affiliations are procured according to elective.

Elementary courses of evening lectures have been arranged by the finest instructors and pupils can go along very nicely while holding other positions until competent to take up the practical work. Special attention is given in evening courses for graduate attendant nurses. The principal of the school is Miss M. Jenness Hall, R. N.

LONDON PRESS LAUD MARION DAVIES

By JOHN T. BURKE

Universal Cable

London, Aug. 22.—All the London evening papers echo the morning papers in their praise of "Little Old New York," with its superb scenery, beautiful dresses for women and historically correct costumes for men, as a supercreation of cinema art. Miss Marion Davies is congratulated for the greatest triumph of her artistic career.

FASCINATING COLLEEN.

The Evening Star—"The very simplicity of 'Little Old New York' is its greatest charm. It is free from over-exaggerated scenes, has no villains, no triangular 'passions,' and never a dull moment from beginning to end. The principal part, Patricia O'Day, is played by Marion Davies, and a fascinating and roguish colleen she is with her sympathetic eyes and girlish Irish tenderness. The film is one of the best ever seen in London, certainly one of the most charming."

The Pall Mall Gazette—"Miss Marion Davies scored a great success at the Empire Theatre in the role of Patricia O'Day in "Little Old New York."

The Evening News—"As a simple love story, 'Little Old New York' can claim to rank among the best of the present time American productions.

EFFECTIVE PICTURE.

The Evening Standard—"'Little Old New York' is a picturesque film of American life of 120 years ago. Most effective use has been made of opportunities for recreating the New York of that era. Marion Davies appears in a dashing role of an Irish girl in boy's clothes. It is a very pleasing and typical American production."

The Evening News publishes a picture of Marion Davies, praising her for her comedy genius, which the News says: "Has not been hitherto revealed."

Paris Divorce Aim of Woman

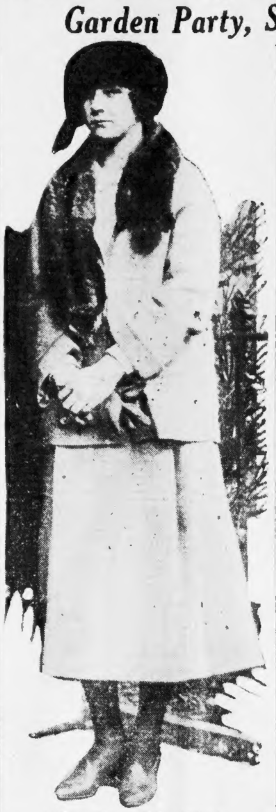
Deauville, France, Aug. 22.—According to casino and beach gossip here, Mrs. Ann Shewan, of New York, who is here alone and is a great friend of the Princess Viora, formerly Edith Kelly Gould, intends to establish a residence in France as a preliminary to a Paris divorce.

Miss Weld Sings Today at Manchester Garden Party, Says Betty Alden



MISS FRANCES WELD

By BETTY ALDEN.

THOSE who saw the last Vincent Club show certainly remember the hit which Frances Weld and Grace Sargent made with their duet. Dressed in their picturesque costumes of far-away China, the two girls made quite a picture. Frances Weld, who is very petite, has light hair shot with red, while Miss Sargent is a tall brunette.

At the much-talked-of garden party being held today on Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge's Manchester estate, little Miss Weld will sing some songs which a group of children are to act out. Mrs. Gardner Minot of Pride's Crossing has coached the youngsters, who include Elizabeth McKeen as "Little Bo-Peep," the four little Sortwell girls—Anna, Elise, Frances and Cynthia—as "Four Little Sisters in a Row," as well as John Lyman and Marian McKean as "Jack and Jill."

This is only one part of the interesting program which the youngsters of the North Shore are presenting at today's garden party, the proceeds of which will help swell the coffers of the Children's Hospital. One group of little folk will give "Alice in Wonderland," the Misses Gabriella and Vernon Ladd of Beverly Farms are putting on a dialogue from Dickens, Miss Consuelo Bates—who studied dancing abroad—has coached some future debutantes who will present terpsichorean numbers, while other features include the ever-popular "grab" and a sale of tempting edibles.

Practically everyone along the Shore is turning out for the occasion. The magnificent terraces on Mrs. Coolidge's estate make a perfect setting for an al fresco affair, and with everyone taking part in it wearing some costume or other, today's affair promises to present quite a colorful sight.

WHILE MR. AND MRS. "PETE" SORTWELL and their quintet of youngsters spend six weeks sojourning in Maine and later in Gloucester, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Graeme Haughton will occupy the Sortwell's place at Beverly Farms known as "Little Comfort."

Mr. and Mrs. Haughton are returning from their European trip September 1, when they will go directly to "Little Comfort." During their stay there a start will be made on plans for the Haughton's new home at Pride's Crossing, their old place being burned last year.

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT JAQUES, JR., and their children came the first of the month to the Churchman cottage on Smith's Point, Manchester, while its occupants, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Sohier, Jr (Elaine Denegre), are spending the month in Maine.

BACK in Hamilton are the Albert C. Burrages, Jr., who went with a party of friends to Narragansett Pier, where Mr. Burrage played on the Myopia team in the polo matches held at the Pier.

Virtue shows its worth when put to the test, Lord Bacon declares in an essay on "Adversity."

"'Will you walk into my parlor?' said the spider to the fly."

This memory of childhood is from "The Spider and the Fly," by Mary Howitt.

"Ridicule is the test of truth."

This old English saying is found in various authors. Anything that can weather the storm of ridicule has in it undeniable truth.

"I am not a Virginian, but an American."

Proudly declared that patriot, Patrick Henry, in a speech in September, 1774, before the Virginia Convention.

"With decent poverty content His hours of ease not idly spent."

This couplet from his epitaph, Abraham Cowley, the English poet, considered sufficient eulogy.

"Time changes all things."

This old truth is found in a fragment of the works of Plato, the famous Greek philosopher.

LYNN SHOE MEN SUE STRIKING LASTERS

Members of the Lynn Shoe Manufacturers' Association have entered civil suits against 100 heads and agents of the Lasters' Local of the Amalgamated Shoe Workers' Association for damages alleged to have been incurred through the present strike of the lasters.

The manufacturers charge the lasters with having violated a peace agreement, that no lockout, walkout, or strike shall be declared before 1924.

It is feared that unless the strike of the 800 lasters is settled this week the shoe factories will be forced to close, thus forcing 10,000 other workers out of employment. The supply of unfinished shoes in the plants where the lasters' strike is in progress is so great that the plants cannot continue to operate if the strike is prolonged.

KLAN IS BUILDING UP POWERFUL POLITICAL MACHINE FOR 1924

KLUXERS TO BACK OWN CANDIDATES

Will Admit Foreign Protestants to Order; Steubenville Quiet Again

Steubenville, Ohio, Aug. 22.—The Ku Klux Klansmen of Steubenville, under the leadership of a mysterious kleagle locally known as "Michael Murphy," have decided to place an independent Klan candidate in the field for Mayor of Steubenville this Fall, but not to hold public meetings in the near future or in any way to make targets of themselves for stones, clubs or revolver shots.

Plans of city officials to ask Governor Donahey for the protection of the militia were cancelled when they learned that there is to be no public parade of masked and sheeted klansmen tomorrow.

The Steubenville kleagle said more than 200 persons had joined the local klan since the anti-klan riot last Wednesday, and that indignation over this outbreak had caused a sudden increase in recruiting throughout the region.

ADMIT FOREIGNERS.

A radical departure from the klan constitution has been devised by this kleagle, a special organizer, who has introduced the klan into forty-four communities and usually is employed as a battering ram to open the way for the klan in communities where there is strong anti-klan sentiment.

The proposed amendment is to facilitate recruiting in center of foreign-born populations by permitting certain foreign-born esitizens to join. Hitherto only the American born have been admitted and Klan propaganda has been levelled largely against the foreign born.

"We have asked for a special dispensation," said the kleagle, "to enable us to accept a certain number of Protestant foreign born citizens of good character, who appeal for admittance. We have had a great number of such applications, and I believe it would be a good thing in certain communities, like this one, to allow them to become members of the Klan. We expect favorable action from the national officers in the near future."

The foreign born citizens who will be initiated into the Klan at Steubenville if this permission is obtained, will be, for the most part, men born in England and Wales. There is a large colony of English-born here and they have been led to favor the Klan because of the incessant anti-British campaign of agitators in and out of the Knights of the Knights of Columbus.

Kleagle "Murphy" said there was a Protestant Italian church in Steubenville and that the pastor and certain members of the congregation be eligible to the klan if the "special dispensation" is granted.

POWERS GROWING.

The independent klan candidate for Mayor this Fall has not been selected. The klan has swept the recent elections in Youngstown, East Liverpool and other Ohio towns and is threatening to obtain the political power in Ohio that it already has in Indiana.

The klan had a candidate—Albert T. Smith—in the primaries last Tuesday for the Republican nomination for Mayor and he was beaten by only 600 votes. It was an outburst of after election exuberance rather than hatred of the klan which caused the attacks just after the election.

The Klan is proceeding very quietly and there is no likelihood of any organized violence against members, but there still is some danger of street episodes.

WAR ON CATHOLICS.

There is a great traffic in revolvers. Hardware stores display them like garden tools and the pawn shops are arsenals. The razor and stiletto used to figure in brawls, but they have been supplanted by revolvers.

"Let the Democrats try to nominate Gov. Smith of New York," said Mr. Murphy. "Wait until his name is put before the convention, and see what happens to him! Read over the list of Congressmen, and see how many Roman Catholics disappear from political life in the next year or two."

HYDE PARK TO HAVE FARE CELEBRATION

Citizens of Hyde Park have arranged for a demonstration on Friday evening, August 31, to celebrate the adoption of the single fare on the trolley cars from Hyde Park to Boston proper, which will be effective September 1. For twenty years residents of Hyde Park had been battling for the single fare.

Mayor Curley and other officials will be passengers on a special car which will be run, the night of August 31, from the old ine on Hyde Park avenue and proceed through the district.

TELLS SECRET OF WIN IN AMERICAN SWIM

MISS DELMA CARLSTMOM

Sixteen-year-old Worcester girl credits her victory in the Boston American mile swim to a change of stroke, which she describes.

GIRLS URGED TO SWIM BY MISS CARLSTROM

Miss Delma Carlstrom of Worcester, sixteen year old winner of the Boston American mile swim in the Charles River Basin, and one of the foremost women swimmers in the country, believes every woman should take up swimming as an aid to health and beauty.

Through the Boston American, Miss Carlstrom, for the first time, tells New England women how to become swimmers of more than average ability. She states:

"My success in the Boston American mile swim was due to a new stroke I learned from Jack Barnacle of the Worcester Rowing Club. He has coached me for three years.

CHANGED HER STYLE

"Mr. Barnacle advised me to change my old stroke to a less tiresome one—the 'six beat' combination crawl with a slight scissors kick. The 'six beat' stroke consists of six leg kicks with every complete arm stroke. The scissors is a sideways kick with a narrow leg spread.

"Swimming is an ideal sport and is exceptionally beneficial to everybody. It develops the whole body symmetrically and does not sacrifice one muscle for the betterment of others. Every single fibre and sinew is brought into play, making the exercise ideal for development."

START EASILY.

"I advise beginners to take it easy. Too much effort at first may prove harmful. One must judge his strength accurately and not overtax it."

7 HELD ON CHARGE OF MURDER

The roomer objected and cried out in alarm. The burglar fled.

COOLIDGES NOW IN WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Aug. 22.—President and Mrs. Coolidge are spending their first day as residents of the White House today.

Until their morning newspapers were read, few of the capital's residents were aware that the President and the new First Lady had moved from their quarters at the Neew Willard Hotel, to the executive mansion.

Driving the short distance from the hotel late yesterday, they slipped into the White House almost unnoticed.

Two days before, Mrs. Harding, who had been urged by the President and Mrs. Coolidge to remain at the White House as long as it suited her convenience in arranging the removal of the personal belongings of President Harding and herself, had concluded the task and left to stay for a short time with friends here.

TELEPHONE CO. WIDENING AREA OF AUTOMATICS

The machine switching system, or automatic telephone, as it is commonly known, will be installed in several Boston exchanges during the next year, according to the Boston News Bureau.

That will include the Liberty office, serving 9,600 stations in Main, Congress and Beach areas; in the Columbia office serving 10,000 stations in the Dorchester area; at Milton serving 9,000 stations in the Milton area; in the Kenmore office serving 8,600 stations in the Back Bay area, and in the Allston office serving 4,200 stations in the Brighton area.

Additions are being made in the Gaspee office in Providence and the Aspinwall office in Brookline, to increase the stations served from those offices approximately to 14,600 and 12,300 stations, respectively.

During 1925 further extensions of the machine equipment will be completed in the Dorchester, Back Bay and down-town business office areas and installation strated at Roxbury. Construction work is now under way on a building at Lawrence, to house a machine equipment serving the entire telephone development of that city.

By the end of 1926 it is expected that approximately 100,000 stations will be operating on the machine switching system in the Boston and Providence Metropolitan areas. It is pointed out that it will not be necessary to substitute new private branch exchange switchboards as a small amount of additional apparauts is installed on the branch board without interfering in their use.

RADIO ENLISTED IN NATION-WIDE SEARCH FOR STOLEN BABY

MOTHER IN STATE OF COLLAPSE

Police Scour Greenwich Village on Hint Demented Artist Is Kidnaper

By Universal Service.

New York, Aug. 22.—Search for Lillian McKenzie, kidnaped infant, took on a nation-wide scope when wireless descriptions and circulars were sent out to thousands of points in the United States and Canada.

The mother of the baby is recovering from a hysterical collapse when the reports of more than 160 detectives searching for the lost child gave no hope of its immediate return. The father, Peter McKenzie, went back and forth between his home and the police station, seemingly dazed, vainly grasping at the faintest hope for his little girl's recovery.

PROMISING LEAD.

Acting Captain Funston said the most definite lead his men were following was the clue given by the detective of the Ten-cent store from in front of which the baby was stolen. The detective said that on the day the child disappeared he had ejected from the store a man who had been accosting children. The police have a good description of the man.

Meanwhile, throughout Greater New York, Connecticut and New Jersey many a mother had to give convincing proof to policemen that the babies they were mothering were their own. The police were busy, too, answering in person more than 100 letters received giving "tips" on the appearance of a new baby in many neighborhoods.

"VILLAGE" SCOURED.

The home of the McKenzies is near Greenwich Village, abode of the artistic element of New York, and after making a thorough canvass of all homes in the immediate neighborhood of the McKenzie house the police started to search houses in the "Village."

The belief was expressed that some man or woman, whose mind had been affected by too close concentration on artistic pursuits, might have had a hand in spiriting away the baby.

Harry Riley, a chum of Peter McKenzie's, stood all day at the entrance to Brooklyn bridge and scanned the faces of thousands of persons, hoping he might find someone who would know of the baby or who would be carrying it.

The police force, made up mostly of men with children of their own are putting their whole hearts into the search for Lillian. The force of 165 detectives detailed to the case was augmented by all the members of the training school for detectives.

LENIN'S BRAIN IS DRYING UP, KORFF SAYS

Williamstown, Aug. 22. — Baron Sergius A. Korff, assistant Governor-General of Finland under the Kerensky regime, and professor of history and political economy at the University of Helsingfors under Czarist Russia, delivering a series of lectures before the Institute of Politics here, declared Lenin is dying because his brain is drying up, and that with him, Bolshevism in Russia will die.

Premier Lenin

"Lenin is dying. He is probably out of the game forever," declared Baron Korff. "He was shot in the neck by a revolutionary girl and one of the main arteries was injured.

"And the irony of fate is that the same process happening in his own system is happening to his government—to the communistic nuclei which he established. There is no fresh blood coming to Russia's institutions. Russia did not accept its Utopia."

DOG FOILS COPS FOR HOURS; BILL HAS TO LAUGH

Down Winthrop Highland way Bill Byrne, whose magnificent ocean front home adjoins the putting green of the fashionable Cliff House shook out a newspaper, gasped, then ran to his wife Celia, snickering violently.

Said Bill: "Celia look."

And with great ado he read whereof Miss Virginia Katherine Dodge, Radcliffe senior, had forgotten her chummy roadster in Boston, leaving "Governor" her big great Dane-German mastiff sitting on the front seat. The car was forgotten in Boylston street and so vicious did "Governor" look to the Boston police department it was hours before a cop sneaked up to put a tag on it.

"Ha, ha, isn't that great dear?" said Mr. Byrne.

It was.

Miss Dodge summers at the Cliff House and chums with Mr. Byrne's daughter, while "Governor" summers on the Byrne front porch and chums with Bill. Every night Bill covers up Governor and in the morning greets him.

"And," said Bill, "as George and Mr. Nisson in the Cliff House will tell you Governor wouldn't hurt the proverbial flea."

GARRISON FACING FAMINE; MOORS BESIEGE SPANIARDS

Madrid, Aug. 22.—Military aviators report that the Spanish garrison at Tifaruin, Morocco, is continuing to resist heroically the assaults of Moorish tribesmen. The Moors have succeeded in closing their position.

The garrison sent out word by heliograph that it had food on hand for only four days.

Air scouts report that large detachments of tribesmen appear to be concentrating for fresh attacks. A general Spanish offensive is anticipated in an effort to relieve the garrison.

Love

Love means happiness—and misery. Love means success—and failure. Love means great adventure—and tragic boredom. Love means everything—or nothing, as Robert Hichens, Gene Stratton-Porter, I. A. R. Wylie, Coningsby Dawson and others, show you in September Good Housekeeping.

Robert Hichens
author of "Bella Donna"
"The Garden of Allah"
Suppose your son, your fiance were on trial for murder? Innocent or guilty, what will be the life of a man who has been tried for murder? Read "After the Verdict" in September Good Housekeeping.

In the same issue:
Stories by Gene Stratton-Porter, Coningsby Dawson, Dana Burnet, I. A. R. Wylie, Mary Synon, and Adela Rogers St. Johns. 7 stories and 54 features.
Traps set for women
There are traps set for every woman who has money. How she can save it, what pitfalls to avoid, are told by Edward Mott Woolley.
And..."On Being Presented to the Queen of England," by Frances P. Keyes; Winter Fashions Forecasted; Interior Decoration; Cookery; Home Management; Dr. Wylie; Health and Beauty; Kiddy page in full colors—something to interest every member of the family.

The need for love
There are times when love is needed more than anything else in the world. Clive Baratrie needed it. He was on trial for the murder of a woman whose life became entangled with his. More than reputation, more than freedom, more than vindication in the eyes of the world, he needed love. Without love, he could have none of these—not even life itself. And so, his greatest hunger, his greatest need was the love of his mother and his fiancee. An extraordinary new novel by Robert Hichens—"After the Verdict." Read the first long installment in September Good Housekeeping.

Can love survive suspicion?
Jealousy, doubt, suspicion—these things can make love bitter and heart-breaking. Mahala felt them creep into her life when, in its darkest moment, the man she loved believed her to be dishonest. Suspicion gave way to conviction, and in the most dramatic story she has ever written, Gene Stratton-Porter bares the soul-torturing spectacle of love as it affects a whole town. Read "The White Flag" in September Good Housekeeping.

The failure of mother-love
It isn't only necessary for a mother to love her daughter. There must be something else. Joyce's mother had met with shipwreck on the coast of folly and now Joyce herself was in the grip of scandal. Read Coningsby Dawson's significant novel—"The Coast of Folly"—in September Good Housekeeping.

SPURNS SUITOR STABBED BY HER FATHER

MARGURITE NAVARRO

In the City Hospital today De Filipo Rocco, impetuous courter, is pondering more conservative ways to ask Vincenzo Navarro of No. 16 Foster street in the North End, for the hand of his daughter, the pretty Marguerite.

In Dewey Square Rocco approached Navarro and told him he intended marrying Marguerite. The father objected to Rocco's attentions. A violent argument ensued. Navarro drew a knife and plunged it into Rocco's chest.

"For some time Rocco has been trying to browbeat me into marrying him," Miss Navarro said today. "I don't like the man and my family objects to him. His attentions were annoying, and twice he has been warned to stay away.

Navarro is under arrest on a chrge of assault with a knife. Rocco will recover.

COUCH MYSTERY SOLVED BY SCRIBES

On a couple of occasions in the press room at police headquarters, reporters John Noonan, Harry McCormack and Frank McLean said they saw the straw couch Police Commissioner Wilson had given them a few months back actually move.

The rest of the news hounds gave the trio the raucous razz' which is likened in sound unto sand paper rubbed on cement. They pointed out that Noonan is still a groom and therefore unreliable; McLean just became a daddy for the second time and therefore seeing naught but baby smiles while McCormack is getting old and therefore unsteady as to vision.

So the boys took a chance, continued to lead a busy life reading magazines on the couch and protested violently when their wives insisted they were bringing more than their weekly stipend into the house.

Today however Noonan and the two Macs tipped over the couch before an eye doctor. Out poured 3,999,-976 well-known circus bees, listed in the encyclopedia as Cimex Lectularius.

As the presses start a committee of three wait on the commissioner. They wish to return the couch.

GET READY TO USE SOFT COAL, HULTMAN SAYS

Strike or no strike, the people of this State can beat the hard coal barons by burning soft coal and other substitutes.

Chairman Eugene C. Hultman, of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, today issued a public statement, urging the people to get ready to use bituminous in order to save themselves from physical suffering this Winter if needs be and to break down the high prices of anthracite.

Mr. Hultman also informed the public how much hard coal is in the State on the verge of the strike.

There were 183,082 tons on hand at the beginning of the coal year, April 1, he said.

From April 1 to August 1, the hard coal receipts totalled 2,067,-943 tons.

Of that joint total of 2,251,000 tons, 1,910,923 tons have been delivered to the consumers and 340,-102 tons are still in the bins of the dealers.

The State has received about half of the 5,250,000 tons of hard coal which it burns every year.

URGES USE OF SOFT COAL

Mr. Hultman said in his statement:—

If a strike should occur, as threatened, some residents of Massachusetts will have full coal bins of hard coal purchased last Spring while others will be forced to fill empty bins with soft coal.

Should a prolonged tie-up occur in the hard coal fields the public at large will be forced to burn soft coal, wood, oil or coke.

Householders have been advised to stop depending upon hard coal and get used to the softer fuel, anthracite coal having doubled in price within ten years with no increase in production. Today you can purchase soft coal for $7 less per ton than anthracite.

Here are the latest figures on domestic hard coal received in Massachusetts:

—1923—

MRS. AL SMITH LOSES HER $5,000 BRACELET

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 22.—A diamond-studded bracelet valued at $5,000, given his wife last Christmas by Governor "Al" Smith, was lost by Mrs. Smith while walking to a store a few blocks from the executive mansion. The Governor and all the attaches of the mansion scoured the neighborhood without success, and the police were then notified. Mrs. Smith was inconsolable over her loss, and it is understood the Governor will offer a reward for the return of the necklace. ## DOCTOR IN AUTO HELD AS DRUNK

Accused With Wife of Driving Wild Through Lynn Cemetery

A wild automobile ride through St. Mary's Cemetery, Lynn, which ended in a crash into a gravestone resulted in the arrest of Dr. Thomas F. Cogan of Endicott avenue, Beachmont, Revere, operator of the car, and his wife, Annie, who was a passenger.

Both the physician and his wife, the police allege, were intoxicated.

With them in the automobile were five children whom the physician had taken for a ride. The children, all brothers and under ten years of age, are Bernardo, Frank, Vincento, Samuel and Joseph Piriglio of No. 104 Endicott avenue, Beachmont.

The children told the police they were playing near their home when the physician invited them to ride with him. They drove to Lynn and proceeded to the cemetery, where are buried many of Dr. Cogan's relatives.

The physician's car sped through the narrow paths in the cemetery until it finally veered from the road and crashed into a gravestone, overturning it. None of the occupants of the auto was injured.

The cemetery caretaker informed the police of the crash and Dr. Cogan and his wife were arrested. The children were returned to their home.

A fire at the Suburban Coal Company's plant, No. 18 Tyler street, Somerville, destroyed two buildings, damaged several others and forced two families out of their homes. The damage is estimated at $15,000. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

The fire was discovered by Leslie Wright, 18 years old, of No. 443 Somerville avenue. He noticed flames escaping from the stable at No. 20 Tyler street and forcing an entrance into the smoke filled interior, rescued two horses and then rang the alarm.

The stable, containing hay, grain, and harnesses, was destroyed. A two and a half story wooden frame building at No. 10 Tyler street, unoccupied, was also destroyed.

BUS RUNS WILD; 1 KILLED, 16 INJURED

3 BOMBERS TO LAND AT EAST BOSTON BASE

Three of the Martin bombers, en route on the return flight from Bangor, Me., to Langley Field, Va., will land at the Boston Air Field, East Boston, this afternoon or tomorrow, it is announced by Major Edwin D. Lyon, aviation officer of the First Corps Area.

The big bombers will remain at the Boston field over night and will be inspected by Mayor Curley, who has been officially invited to the field. They will be open to the public. The time of their departure has not yet been announced.

A high gale was holding the planes up in Bangor today, and doubt was felt if they could start until tomorrow.

Two of the escorting DeHavilands arrived at the East Boston landing field last night and leave today for Mitchell Field, L. I. All are of the fleet of 18 Martin bombers and nine DeHaviland escorts which passed over here last Monday on their remarkable flight from Langley Field to Bangor.

The bombers all return to Langley Field and the DeHavilands to Mitchell Field.

The start of the bombers from Bangor was to be made early today. Groups of the bombers will stop at various New England cities which have landing fields, including Old Orchard Beach, Me.; Concord, N. H., and Hartford, Ct.

FROSTS PREDICTED FOR NEW ENGLAND

Washington, Aug. 22.—The eastward sweep of the northern weather disturbance from the Upper Lage Region to the mouth of the St. Lawrence River during the last twenty-four hours brought frosts today to parts of Michigan and Northeastern Minnesota, and the Weather Bureau today predicted light frost tonight in New England and Northern New York.

The chill storm has been followed by sharply cooler weather over the Northern and Middle States east of the Rocky Mountains and has been attended by considerable rain. Storm warnings were continued today at and north of Atlantic City.

THIEF SLIPS OUT OF COAT AND ESCAPES

The South Station was the setting today for a fast little crook melodrama.

From New York the police here had received a message to look out for one Frank Havey wanted in New York for the theft of $500. The message read that Havey had shipped a trunk to Boston and would probably call for it at the South Station.

The police ordered the baggage room men to hold the trunk and advise any expressman who came for it that it would have to be identified by the owner.

As a result, a man came today to claim the trunk.

Patrolman Ray of the La Grange Street Station and Officer Jones of the railroad police were on hand.

The New York police message had given a complete description of the man they wanted. The distinguishing mark of identification was a cross-shaped scar on the left cheek.

The man who came for the trunk answered the description in every detail, including the peculiar scar. When he came to the counter to speak to the baggage clerk, Ray stole up and suddenly yanked him by the collar.

The man acted with lightning rapidity.

He slipped out of his coat, jumped over a counter, leaped through a window, and in a second was in Atlantic avenue. By the time the two cops gathered their wits, he was lost in the crowd.

In the coat the police found papers which establish that the man was Havey. They also found a gold watch. They also found $475, probably the residue of the stolen $500, the balance probably having been spent by Mr. Havey for railroad fare to Boston.

IT'S A HABIT

And yet another time, the Boston American leads with the news!

Last night the American published the news from Atlantic City that the coal parley had failed, and that a general strike in the anthracite coal fields will be called September 1.

No other newspaper in Boston last evening published this important news. This is just one of a long series of news beats scored by the Boston American.

The American was first with the news of the President's illness, first with his death and first with the pictures of the greatest funeral in American history.

Photographs of the funeral were rushed to Boston from Washington by airplane at great expense to the American.

Beginning this week, the Boston American gives its readers a daily special colored comic and feature section, the only one of its kind in the Metropolitan District. This feature is now a permanent department of the Boston American.

Portland, Me., Aug. 22.—The second day after he was discharged from the Maine General Hospital, where he had been recovering from a broken right foot, suffered when he slipped from his team and was run over, William H. Carroll, a teamster, was killed in an accident similar to the first.

New York, Aug. 22.—Demands that the wages of motion picture operators, now ranging from $75 to $86 a week, be increased to a scale averaging from $95 to $118 a week, have been refused by the executive committee of the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce.

LYNN LASTERS GO BACK TO WORK

The lasters' strike, which has tied up Lynn shoe factories for about a week, was settled today.

The strikers agreed to accept increases of 15 per cent. and 17½ per cent., instead of the 25 and 50 per cent. demanded, and returned to work at one p. m.

Notice to this effect was given Justice Carroll of the Supreme Court, and contempt proceedings brought against officers of the Lasters' Union, the Joint Council and individual members of the Union, were continued for one week.

The end of the strike was brought about through a conference arranged by Frederick W. Mansfield, counsel for the lasters. At this conference the manufacturers agreed to increases of 15 and 17½ per cent. The question of further increase was left to arbitration.

3 BOYS DISAPPEAR FOLLOWING ARREST

Nicolas Leone, sixteen years old, son of Gilaro Leone, Hanover street clothing manufacturer, of No. 493 Main street, Medford, was to appear in Malden Juvenile Court on a charge of being present at a gambling game while his companions in flight, Patsy Sculi, fifteen years old, of Main street, Medford, and Nick Brunee, sixteen years old also of Main street, were to answer charges of taking part in the game.

14-Year-Old "Tom" Jennings of American Crew Was Hit by an Auto

Mayor Curley has taken it on himself to see that fourteen-year-old "Tom" Jennings, Boston American newsboy, who is in a dangerous condition at the City Hospital from injuries in an automobile accident, is given the best of care, and says that he will pay the bills if necessary.

Young Jennings, who is the sole support of his mother, has a broken leg and a fractured skull. His mother has been in constant attendance at his bedside.

The Mayor's attention was called to the case by J. Paul Canty, of the District Attorney's office. The Mayor called in Superintendent John J. Dowling of the City Hospital and after a conference instructed him to do everything possible for the injured newsboy. He secured a private room for the boy and provided a private nurse.

ARTIST TO TESTIFY IN STOKES SUIT

New York, Aug. 22.—A commission assigning American Consul General Skinner at London to take the testimony of Arthur G. ## Year's Best Selling Novel Reveals Mysterious Return of Youth and Beauty to Old Woman

By Arrangement with Associated First National Pictures, Inc., in Whose Film Version Corinne Griffith Will Appear as Countess Zattiany

START THIS BEST-SELLER HERE TODAY

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by rising in her seat at the theatre and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses, after the European fashion. Clavering and his friend, Dinwiddie, are immediately interested, and the latter receives a shock, declaring that she is the image of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He thinks she may be a daughter. Clavering follows Mary home from the theatre and aids her to get into the house as she has lost her key. She invites him in and tells him she is Countess Josef Zattiany. He nearly guesses her secret. He asks her to marry him. Clavering invites her to dinner at Sherry's marry him. He takes her to a gay studio party, after which she invites him home to hear her story of renewed youth.

READ ON. THE THRILLS COME FAST

Clavering made no answer. His cigarette burned a hole in the carpet

CLAVERING rose as she entered, and for the moment his heart failed him. He had never seen her look more like marble, and she did not meet his eyes as she crossed the room and seated herself so that her profile would be toward him as she talked. As she had chosen the large high-backed chair, Clavering, knowing her love of comfort, hoped that her discourse was to be brief.

"When I finish," she said in her low vital voice, "I shall leave the room immediately and I must have your word that you will make no attempt to detain me, and that you will go at once and not return until Monday afternoon. I shall not wish to see you again until you have had time to deliberate calmly on what I shall tell you. I do not want any embarrassed protests from a gallant gentleman—whose confusion of mind is second only to his chivalrous dismay. Have I your word?"

"It never takes me long to make up my mind——"

"That may be, but I intend to save you from an embarrassing situation. You need not come on Monday unless you wish. You may write—or, for that matter, if I do not hear from you on Monday by 4 I shall understand——"

"I—for God's sake, Mary——"

"You must do as I say—this time. And—and—you could not overcome me again tonight. I can turn myself to stone when I choose."

"Oh!" He ground his teeth. His own nerves might be lulled for the moment, but he had anticipated reaction when she finished her story. "Very well—but it is for the last time, my dear. And why Monday? Why not this afternoon?"

"You must sleep and write your column, is it not so"? Moreover—and deliberately—I am lunching with Mrs. Ruyler and dining at the Lawrences'."

"Very well. Monday, then. You have set the stage. If I must be a puppet for once in my life, so be it. But, I repeat, it's for the last time. Now, for heaven's sake, go ahead and get it off your chest."

"And you will let me go without a word? Otherwise I shall not speak—and I'll leave the room again and not return."

"Very well. I promise."

"I told part of it the other day at Mrs. Oglethorpe's luncheon—I had told her before. But there's so much else. I hardly know how to begin with you, and I have not the habit of talking about myself. But I suppose I should begin at the beginning."

"It is one of the formulae."

"It is the most difficult of all—that beginning." And although she had announced the torpidity of her nerves, her hands clenched and her voice shook slightly.

"Let me remind you that to begin anywhere you've got to begin somewhere." And then as she continued silent, he burst out: "For God's sake, say it!"

"Is—is—it possible that the suspicion has never crossed your mind that I am Mary Ogden?"

"Wh-a-at!"

"Mary Ogden, who married Count Zattiany thirty-four years ago. I was twenty-four at the time. You may do your own arithmetic."

But Clavering made no answer. His cigarette was burning a hole in the carpet. He mechanically set his foot on it, but his faculties felt suspended, his body immersed in ice-water. And yet something in his unconscious rose and laughed . . . and tossed up a key . . . If he had fallen in love with her he would have found that key long since. His news sense rarely failed him.

"I've told a good many lies, I'm afraid," she went on, and her voice was even and cool. The worst was over. "You'll have to forgive me that at least. I dislike downright lying, if only because concessions are foreign to my nature, and I quibbled when it was possible; but when cornered there was no other way out. I had no intention of being forced to tell you or any one the truth until I chose to tell it."

"Well, you had your little comedy!"

"It did amuse me for a time, but I think I explained all that in my letter. I also explained why I came to America, and that if I had not met you I should probably have come and gone and no one but Judge Trent been the wiser. I had prepared him by letter, and to him, I suppose, it has been a huge comedy—with no tragic sequel. Be sure that I never entertained the thought that I could ever love any man again. But I have made up my mind to disenchant you as far as possible, not only for your sake, but my own. I wish you to know exactly whom you have fallen in love with."

"You grow more interesting every moment," said Clavering politely, "and I have never been one-half as interested in my life."

"Perhaps you have heard—Mrs. Oglethorpe, I should think, would be very much disposed to talk about old times—that I was a great belle in New York—belles were fashionable in those days of more marked individuality. I suppose no girl ever had more proposals. Naturally I grew to understand my power over men perfectly. I had that white and regular beauty combined with animation and great sex-magnetism which always convinces men that under the snow volcanic fires are burning. I was experienced, under the frankest exterior, in all the subtle arts of the coquette. Men to me were a sort of musical instrument from which I could evoke and harmony or cacophony I chose.

Loyalty and Friendship

"What held the men I played with and rejected was my real gift for good-fellowship, my loyalty in friendship, and some natural sweetness of disposition. But such power makes a woman, particularly while young, somewhat heartless and callous, and I was convinced that I had no capacity for love myself; especially as I found all men rather ridiculous. I met Otto Zattiany in Paris, where he was attached to the Embassy of the Dual Empire.

He was an impetuous wooer and very handsome. I did not love him, but I was fascinated. Moreover, I was tired of American men and American life. Diplomacy appealed to my ambition, my love of power and intrique. He was also a nobleman with great estates; there could be no suspicion than he was influenced by my fortune. He followed me back to New York, and although my parents were opposed to all foreigners, I had my way; there was the usual wedding in Saint Thomas's, and we sailed immediately for Europe.

"I hated him at once. I shall not go into the details of that marriage. Fortunately he soon tired of me and returned to his mistresses. To him I was the Galatea that no man could bring to life. But he was very proud of me and keenly aware of my value as the wife of an ambitious diplomatist. He treated me with courtesy, and concerned himself not at all with my private life.

"He knew my pride, and believed that where he had failed no man would succeed; in short, that I would never consider divorce nor elopement, nor even run the risk of even less public scandals.

"I was not unhappy. I was rid of him. I had a great position and there was everything to distract my mind. I was not so interested in the inner workings of diplomacy as I was later, but the comedy of jealousy and intrigue in the diplomatic set was amusing from the first. I was very beautiful, I entertained magnificently, I was called the best-dressed woman in Paris, I was besieged by men—men who were a good deal more, difficult to manage than chivalrous Americans, particularly as I was now married and the natural prey of the hunter.

But it was several years before I could think of men without a shudder, little as I permitted them to suspect it. I learned to play the subtle and absorbing game of men and women as it is played to perfection in the older civilizations. It was all that gave vitality to the general game of society. I had no children; my establishment was run by a major domo; it bore little resemblance to a home. It was the brilliant artificial existence of a great lady, young, beautiful and wealthy, in Europe before nineteen-fourteen.

Women Worked Hard

Of course that phase of life was suspended in Europe during the war. All the women I knew or heard of worked as hard as I did. Whether that terrible interregnum left its indelible seal on them, or whether they have rebounded to the old life, where conditions are less agonizing than in Vienna, I do not know."

She paused a moment, and Clavering unconsciously braced himself. Her initial revelation had left the deeper and more personal part of him stunned, and he was listening to her with a certain detachment. So far she had revealed little that Dinwiddie had not told him already, and as he knew that this brief recapitulation of her earlier life was not prompted by vanity, he could only wonder if it were the suggestive preface to that secret volume at which Dinwiddie had hinted more than once.

As she continued silent, he got suddenly to his feet. I'll walk up and down a bit, if you don't mind," he muttered. "I'm rather—ah—getting rather cramped."

"Do," she said indifferently.

"Please go on. I am deeply interested."

She continued in a particularly level voice while he strode unevenly up and down: "Of course the time came when ugly memories faded, my buoyant youth asserted itself and I wanted love. And when a woman feels a crying need to love as well as to be loved, her whole being a peremptory demand, unsatisfied romance quickening, she is not long finding the man. I had many to choose from. I made my choice and was happy for a time.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly advise me how to congratulate a young lady who has just given birth to a boy, this being her second child? Her first baby died at birth. Would you call this the third or fourth party? For instance, I wish to write on the card along with the gift:

Congratulations, loving and hearty, to Father, Mother and the Little "Third" or "Fourth" party.

Which would be proper? I am afraid to write Fourth as the memory of the Third might make her feel bad.

ANNA.

I STRONGLY advise you not to use "Fourth" party, as that surely would bring sad memories. And I think that "Third" party too, might not be in good taste, as this might in some associative way bring to the mother the idea of the other tiny third party that did not stay on this earth.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

NO, Ralph answered with his ready understanding. "I know how conservative your folks are. And I realize that as long as they feel there are—ugly circumstances connected with the case they'd hesitate as long as possible before taking a chance of letting the world see what they consider the family skeleton."

"They have not consented," I replied slowly, hating to tell Ralph what there was no way of hiding from him. "I'm doing this on my own — against their protests. I have to. I can't leave a stone unturned——"

"Of course not. They'll see it yet. We'll start the press and the police working tomorrow. I'll call for you and Jim tonight, and maybe on the drive in I can tell him of the proposition of helping you."

"Jim asked me not to mention Neal to him again," I corrected hastily. "He's perfectly satisfied to have me bring all my troubles to you if only I don' trouble him with the matter again. That's not as bitter as its sounds. Jim feels he ought to stop me somehow. And he thinks he is going against Jeanie and—clan loyalty when he O. K.'s my turning to such an efficient helper as you."

"I see!" said Ralph briefly.

Then he plunged into the outline of a campaign of publicity in our search for Neal.

Knows an Expert

"There's a man I know—sort of Sherlock Holmes without the cleverness of the old story-book hero," he added buoyantly. "He's a newspaper man who has gone in for the law and has turned himself into a regular bureau of records of missing persons. His files on the subject take in the world from Athabasca to Zanzibar. Geographically and otherwise he has gone in for it from A to Z. I'll put him on the job. We'll insert notices in papers all over the country. I'll call on the courtesy of the press and by fellow-newspapermen to spread the warning."

"We'll find him, won't we?" I cried confidently. "Someone will see our notices and send him home. Or perhaps, if he's roaming around somewhere not knowing who he is, he'll remember. You think we'll find him, don't you, Ralph?"

"If he's on top of the earth we'll find him," answered Ralph grimly, as he turned his car and drove in through the gates of the Hoadley country place.

Something about the hitherto atrociously new and glaring red-brick mansion caught my attention. Cool green awnings softened its blank pretention. A wide balcony had been built across one side, and vines trailed down to a glassed-in porch below. Chintz and wicker showed invitingly through the open windows, and from the other side of the house a pebbled path led to green closes, which I guessed to be the hedges around Aunt May's garden.

Ralph honked his horn, and in answer Aunt May came running to the door in a dainty little morning dress of lavender-dotted swiss. She welcomed us happily and showed us around her home proudly.

HOUGHTON AND DUTTON PLAY FILENES

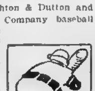
The deciding game of a series between the Houghton & Dutton and William Filene Company baseball nines will be contested this evening at Columbus Park, South Boston.



Hostilities between these teams have grown stronger because of the fact that the game played last week to decide which team should receive the pennant of the Retail Store Leagues resulted in a deadlock.

Great interest is being manifested in this contest which will bring together on the pitching mound Greene and Madden, foremost twirlers in the league. These pitchers figured in a pitching duel in last week's game and will undoubtedly make the game interesting for the fans. On August 2, a game was played between these same teams which also resulted in a tie.

Supreme honors of the league are at stake for the Houghton & Dutton nine. If they are defeated in this contest they will be forced into a tie for the leadership with the R. H. White team. This will require an extra playoff game.

Jess Willard Warns Dempsey

MUST WIN QUICKLY OR LOSE

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Unless Jack Dempsey wins from Luis Firpo within four or five rounds he will not win at all, in the opinion of Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, who is in Chicago on a visit. Firpo, he said, reminded him of Jim Jeffries.

"In my opinion it is a toss up," the former champion said. "They are both tough tearing fighters who rip and smash and [illegible] with little regard for boxing, and it is merely a question of which one lands the first punch.

Jess Willard

"Firpo, more that any other fighter that I have ever seen, reminds me of Jim Jeffries. He hits like Jim used to, and he conducts himself in the ring with about the same generalship that the ex-champ used to show. He has no crouch, however, unlike Jeffries he stands straight up and goes to it. And I'll tell you he can hit.

"Don't let anyone tell you this guy is a set-up for the champ. He has a right, and lately he has been learning to use his left. In my opinion his barnstorming tour has done him a lot of good. He has gradually worked himself into using two hands where formerly he did little except jab with his left and swing with his right.

"I consider Dempsey the greatest quick starter in the business, but I do believe that unless he cops in five rounds he will not cop at all. I honestly believe Dempsey is going to get the surprise of his life when he goes against Firpo."

Don't Miss This Ball Game!

Every baseball fan in Greater Boston should be at Braves Field tomorrow afternoon.

The entire proceeds will be handed over to the World War veterans who are victims of the dread white plague.

The Braves play the Pirates in a regularly scheduled National League game. The Pirates still have a chance for the pennant. The Braves, lowly tailenders, invariably give the Pittsburghers a tough old tussle. So a real ball game is sure, anyhow.

As the war fades back into the past, we are inclined to murmur at constant demands for money. Now that it's over, this hard-boiled country is willing to forget all about the war, the sooner the better.

The boys whose lungs were burned by gas can't forget it. They can only sit and wait, with their wonderful patience, till death ends their suffering. They have no hope, and they have mighty little fun. It doesn't do one of us the least harm to try to spread a little sunshine over the fading lives of these uncomplaining heroes.

Sport followers have answered every appeal to their pocketbooks royally. Boston fans have never been slow to help any cause. Boston fans should fill Braves Field tomorrow.

BOOTLEG RADIO GROWS TO BE NATION-WIDE

New York, Aug. 22 (I. N. S.). The [illegible] is [illegible] a [illegible] of [illegible] dealers [illegible] bootleg [illegible]

The [illegible] vacuum tubes used in receiving sets, [illegible] factories [illegible] New Jersey, [illegible] Manhattan and [illegible] in Brooklyn. [illegible] a clear profit of well over $1,500,000 a month.

The manufacture of "standard tubes" is in the hands of a closed group—the General Electric company and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. Between them the concerns control patent rights which cut the tubes known to every radio fan in the country.

The great factories of the General Electric, situated at Harrison, N. J., across the river from Newark, employ thousands of girls in the manufacture of these tubes, while the Westinghouse plant is at Bloomfield, a suburb of Newark.

The workers are skilled in their trades, and it is from their ranks that the "bootlegger" gathers his labor.

The bootlegger [illegible] system lures them into his factory, operating under the guise of a maker of some other article and there turns out [illegible] "bootleg tubes."

[illegible] "bootleg tubes" a day are being turned out at the New York factories, [illegible] in the New Jersey plants and an additional 1,500 in the Brooklyn establishments.

The markings of the "standard" and "patented" tubes are followed in every detail, except that the names are painted on the glass of the tube instead of being etched in.

Originally designed to catch New York trade, the "bootlegging" of radio tubes has become such a [illegible] infringements to have formed a "ring" and are now disposing of their articles in every radio center of the country.

Efforts to have the bootleg factories raided are now being made by the patent-right holders, who charge that men of influence, associated with other reliable manufacturing concerns have allied themselves with "radio bootlegging."

RADIO QUERIES

ADDING A CRYSTAL

Radio Editor:

Kindly [illegible] to show [illegible] how [illegible] small crystal detector [illegible] the one below so that the crystal can be used interchangeably with the tube.

L. C. G.

You will have to change your hook-up slightly, but this change will not affect your reception any. Hook-up is shown.

A BATTERY POLARITY

Radio Editor:

Is this the right hookup for the [illegible] circuit? The positive of the A battery to the grid seems to give louder signals. What spark station is WIM and where is it located now?

A. McQ.

You have omitted a grid leak and condenser from your diagram. Otherwise it is O. K. The polarity of the A battery is interchangeable in most standard detector circuits. WIM is the Radio Corporation station at Chatham. It is not a spark station.

THE [illegible] REFLEX

Radio Editor:

I have con[illegible]

[illegible] though the [illegible] playing tube acts as a detector. Please publish the hook-up over and name the plate, grid and A terminals, as I think I have been connected wrong. [illegible] I am using it.

L. R. H.

The [illegible] of a single-tube reflex will, of course, function as a detector if there is any break in the crystal circuit. The circuit as you show it is correct, and your difficulty is probably one of adjustment. It would be advisable to test the [illegible] connections for opens.

HOOKUP WANTED.

Radio Editor:

Please [illegible] the following: One 43-plate condenser, one 11-plate condenser, one variometer, one vario-coupler tapped every ten turns for six turns on a four-inch tube, and 48 turns on a 3½-inch ball, one variable grid leak and condenser socket, A battery, B battery, tube and socket.

Hook-up is shown. The vario-coupler that you describe will respond to higher wave lengths if the variable condenser is hooked up across the primary [illegible] as shown. [illegible] parallel [illegible] as described [illegible] would be even better.

Most troubles in collars are due to bands. The collar being one material and the band another, laundering distorts the collar at the top. The ordinary collar must have a band for shape. # FRIEDMAN SIGNS TO BATTLE THOMAS AT QUINCY CLUB

CHAMPION IN PLACE OF NEE

By JACK CONWAY.

Abe Friedman, New England's premier bantamweight, apparently intends to keep active in the ring. Following his ten-round victory over Tommy Nee at the Arena, Friedman signed to battle Tony Thomas of New Bedford in a ten-session mill at The Granite A. A.'s show at the Fore River Grounds, Quincy, on Friday night.

Tommy Nee was originally booked to clash with Thomas. Fred Wiederholt informed Matchmaker Al Labreque of the Quincy Club that Nee had injured one of his hands battling Friedman. Labreque immediately signed Friedman to oppose Thomas.

This makes a bang-up card as Thomas won a decision over Friedman at New Bedford on April 30 of this year.

The Quincy Club was obliged to hang up a record purse in order to secure the services of Friedman.

It is expected that the Fore River grounds will be jammed on Friday night.

Joe Pangraze of Quincy and Vic Hirsh of Malden will quarrel in the semi-final of ten rounds. Kid Lambert of Quincy and Hughie Ramsey of Weymouth will box eight sessions as will Barney Troy of the West End and K. O. Lambert of Berlin, N. H.

Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, will experience plenty of opposition when he collides with Bobby Wolgast of Philadelphia in a ten-round title bout under the direction of the Commercial A. C. at the Arena on next Tuesday night. Wolgast is credited with outpointing Pancho Villa in a couple of eight-round no-decision bouts in Philadelphia. As for Genaro, he has two decisions to his credit over Villa while he socked Terry Martin around upon his last appearance here.

Eddie Shevlin, New England welterweight champion, and George Ward of Elizabeth, N. J., are also billed to battle in this city next week. This famous pair of welterweights will mingle in a tussle at the Suffolk A. A. on Friday evening. Shevlin defeated Ward at Revere in a sensational bout a year ago. Until now he would not agree to meet the New Jersey battler in a return engagement. As Ward has outpointed Mickey Walker twice, he possesses the necessary class to make him a real title contender.

Jimmy Jones of Youngstown, Ohio will probably be signed to meet the winner of the Shevlin-Ward battle.

Date Set for American Title Swim to Light

Sunday, September 9, is the date set for the Boston American Boston Light swim for the long distance championship. The course will be from the Charlestown bridge to the Light.

The Boston Light course is considered the most difficult swim of ten miles on the Atlantic coast. Swimmers from other districts have journeyed to Boston with untold laurels and honors, but have been turned back by the turbulent waters of Boston Harbor, and crept to their homeland minus the coveted honor of this swim.

The number of successful candidates who have reached this goal is indeed small and Boston can well claim the majority of those on the honor role. Among those who have breasted this difficult swim are Henry Sullivan of Lowell who successfully swam the English Channel this season and Charles Toth, who is now in England to try the channel swim. In all a baker's dozen have reached the Light.

The Boston American feels that distance swimming is a great boon to health and bases its judgment on the past records [illegible] age of the contestants. Only two weeks ago John J. Bray, a grandfather of sixty, bested a field of thirteen in swimming the nearest distance to the Boston Light. The average age of the contender was well over forty.

It is expected that a large field will enter from the New York and Philadelphia districts.

All those who wish to enter fill out the entry blank and send in to John B. Gillooly, Sporting Editor Boston American, 50 Summer Street, Boston.

WOLGAST WON FAME BY WIN OVER VILLA

Yanked out of the preliminary ranks only a few short months ago and today heralded as the most sensational fighter in the ring, Bobby Wolgast of Philadelphia, flyweight, faces his big opportunity here next Tuesday night when he battles Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, at Mechanics Building.

Mickey Landers

TREASURY LOAN MUST "AWAIT MARKET"

In connection with expectations that the Treasury will bring out a new issue within the next two months, perhaps of long term bonds, it is well known that Secretary Mellon is desirous of placing the government debt on a more manageable basis. He is anxious to refund from time to time such outstanding short paper into longer term securities as is possible.

Of course, the Treasury must "await the market" before launching upon any such campaign. It has taken steps along this line in the last couple of years by issuing three and five year Treasury notes in addition to the large 4¼ per cent, 25-30 year Treasury bond issue of 1922, instead of following the previous practice of offering large blocks of six months' and one year certificates of indebtedness.

Bankers do not believe the government will dispense altogether with some of certificates of indebtedness, although it is felt the government could easily place long-term paper after this year.

When the Treasury offered the 4¼ per cent, 25-30 year issue in Fall of 1922, getting subscriptions of $1,319,000,000 and placing some $760,000,000, many bankers thought the issue would have proved a success had the interest rate been 4 per cent. A long term bond bearing 4 or 4¼ per cent undoubtedly would go well this Fall, bankers say.

Assumption is that large bond issues both domestic and foreign are awaiting a better market in the United States and if any Canadian, South American or other offerings of any proportions are launched it may delay the government in issuing long term securities.

ARGENTINE LOAN TAKEN OVER AT 92

Argentine government has decided to accept the offer of an American banking syndicate, composed of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, Blair & Company and the Chase Securities Corporation, whereby the bankers agree to take up within six months after September 1 approximately $60,000,000 of the Argentine bond issue recently authorized by Congress. The syndicate takes over the issue at 92. The bonds bear six per cent interest with an annual amortization charge of one per cent.

July gross of $16,391,067 increased 12 per cent over a year ago, but as in June maintenance was heavy and net was reduced to $1,354,035, or 44 per cent under a year ago July.

LONG ISLAND IS INSPECTED AS PRISON SITE

The special commission authorized by the Legislature and appointed by Governor Cox to study the question of relocating the State prison made an inspection tour of Long Island.

The committee comprises former Senator George H. Ellis, chairman; Mrs. George R. Fearing, former president of the Boston League of Women Voters; ex-Senator Walter A. Hardy of Fitchburg; John B. Tivnan, editor of the Salem News, and Col. Thorndike Howe of Lawrence. They were accompanied by Dr. David J. Johnson, city institutions commissioner.

Mrs. G. R. Fearing George H. Ellis.

Dr. Johnson explained that an island site for a prison has been regarded by penologists as particularly desirable. "There is every opportunity of utilizing Long Island for a reformatory or prison, inasmuch as it presents a splendid chance to change the present plant into an up-to-date, convenient prison, away from the highways," he said.

The island, according to Dr. Johnson, could be purchased by the State at a very reasonable figure. The land area at Long Island is about seven million square feet. Land and buildings are valued at $2,000,000. The sale figures are set at $1,800,000.

Dr. Johnson claims that the site is an admirable one for a boys' reformatory. With little or no expense it could be turned into a vocational or farming institution.

"Teach a boy some occupation and when you turn him loose he will be a helpful citizen to the community because of the fact that he will be making money," said Dr. Johnson.

$80,000 LOST IN BIG LIQUOR SWINDLE

Providence, Aug. 22—Four Providence business men are gunning for bootleggers who swindled them out of $80,000.

The four business men say they were persuaded by a former prohibition agent to "invest" their money in a cargo of rum being run from the Bahamas.

When the rum ship arrived off Block Island, the bootleggers sold the cargo and reported to the four Providence men that the ship had been boarded by pirates and the liquor stolen. A few days later the four men made inquiries and learned of the swindle.

A TRAGEDY

Across the open air shaft came the sound of a neighbor quarreling with his wife. The step of a late pedestrian sounded sharply on the brick sidewalk. The measured tread of the policeman could be distinctly heard. A clock was striking the hour of two. Suddenly the stillness of the night was broken by the sound of [illegible] down. What could it mean? Silhouetted against the window pane of an adjoining house the form of a man arrayed in pajamas was plainly visible. In his hand he held a shoe and he was raining blows upon some object at his feet. Was it crime in gruesome form stalking in the silence of the night? A muttered exclamation soon dispelled the thought, a new lodger had been discovered by bedbugs and he was proclaiming to the world that two of them had just bitten the dust. Do bedbugs have souls? May be. But when the sole of a shoe and the soul of a bedbug meet there is only one answer, there is one soul where formerly there were two.

How unnecessary it is to have bedbugs anyway. Why one can of Martin's Bedbug Powder makes such short work of a quantity of bedbugs it seems funny that any one should be bothered with them. Don't tell your bedbug troubles to anyone. Buy Martin's Powder. Any drug or department store in New England sells it for 40c and $1.25 per can. 45c and $1.30 by mail. Postage varies according to postal zones. Send money order, check or cash with mail orders. Eleven different powders for other household pests, so be sure to specify the one you want. # Shall We Do Without Sleep Some Day?

Higher Races of Apes Have Abolished Tails—Can We Abolish Sleep?

[illegible] 1923 [illegible]

A half-developed being like man, hanging midway between primitive barbarism and ultimate perfection, should study the insect tribes which appear to have realized the possibilities of development in their line.

The study of the ant and the bee, the spider and the scorpion should fill us with hope. We should say to ourselves.

"If these tiny fragments of life can develop so highly, what may not WE hope for in the way of ultimate possibilities? Our beginning is so much more full of promise than the beginnings of our tiny insect brothers."

This writer, taking his own advice, which is most unusual, has been trying to get acquainted with some insects in the hope of cheering himself and getting new ideas.

From the female scorpion we acquire fresh veneration for the possibilities of maternal devotion.

The mother of the Gracchi has been well advertised because she preferred her sons to jewelry. The Russian mother who feeds herself to the wolves, instead of throwing her boy over the back of the sleigh in the usual way, is also highly praised. But their devotion shrinks to nothing when compared with that of any poor mother scorpion of Mexico's sandy tracts.

As soon as her young scorpions arrive they climb to her back, half a hundred of them or more. She moves about with them, protecting them, avoiding danger, giving them the sunlight. Meanwhile they are feeding on her body. Her movements get gradually slower and slower; finally they cease. The young scorpions depart, leaving the mother scorpion simply an empty shell. We should dislike to see any such exhibition of tenderness among human beings, but we can't help admiring the scorpion.

Mr. Scorpion, placed as was Captain Dreyfus, would sting himself to death. They are a determined race.

Spiders, who construct tiny balloons with little cars all complete, are wonderful creatures. They cross chasms in their balloons, throwing out bits of trailing web which seem to act as rudders. In their little way and in a perfectly adequate fashion they have solved aerial navigation, which still puzzles us. We admire spiders and kill only those with yellow stomachs, which are "poison."

But up to the present we have found the ant the most interestingly suggestive creature. He has developed and understands stirpiculture—the improvement of the race by careful breeding—which with us is as yet mere theory, and as we look down at the ant, we look up to him because the strangely active creature manages to do without sleep.

We human beings drowse through thirty years of our threescore and ten, but the ant is awake and working all the time.

If the ant has managed to live without sleep, if he has acquired the faculty of lifelong wakefulness, why should we not do as much in time? We take it for granted that sleep is essential, as we take everything else for granted. We used to take it for granted that the earth was flat, but we have stopped that. Sleep was at one time forced upon man and other animals.

The earth in its rollings turned away from the sun once in every twenty-four hours. In the darkness of the beginning man said to himself: "If I go walking around, I shall fall into a hole, so I shall lie down and wait until the sun comes again."

He did as all the animals did before him for millions of years. Since that time, man has conquered darkness. Why should he not ultimately conquer sleep?

We know that thin men, nervous, highly organized, do with far less sleep than others. We know that old age requires less sleep than youth.

Can we not cultivate and develop the characteristics which make sleep less necessary? Higher races of apes have abolished tails. Can't we abolish sleep?

As old age needs less sleep than babyhood, so in our maturity as a human race we shall probably demand less sleep than now in our racial babyhood. Perhaps none at all will be needed.

The hours of darkness, given up to sleep no longer, will be devoted to the study of space, to investigation among other worlds.

That kind of life will be worth while. Bear in mind that we shall only really begin to live on this earth when we shall have settled all the little social and material questions here and shall have begun in earnest the study of the universe in which we are a speck.

The days of the future will be given up to artistic enjoyment of the beautiful. The nights will be devoted to intellectual development and research.

Man will LIVE.

Calm Review of a Calm Man

Harding's last words were: "That's good; read some more!" They were his comment upon an article written by Samuel G. Blythe, the noted observer and writer on things and men political.

Mrs. Harding was reading this essay to her supposedly convalescent husband when death closed the President's ears.

The Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, with a fine, dramatic sense of the opportunity presented, has just published in convenient book form Mr. Blythe's virile but sympathetic analysis of President Harding, under the original title: "A Calm Review of a Calm Man." Herein a gratifying public service is rendered to the millions who will be glad to have, as a permanent souvenir, this estimate of our late beloved President.

In this essay a portrait is drawn of Harding that shows him to be as strong as he was kind and as energetic on occasion as usually he was calm. Neither noisy nor brilliant—in fact too modest—he proved himself as a rule keenly intelligent and efficient. And as a worker this man, who was supposed to be an ardent sportsman and a persistent golfer, was the most prodigious performer the White House has seen.

Now that Harding's career has come to so sudden and tragic an end, you will be particularly pleased to read Mr. Blythe's summary of the personality of a President whom he characterizes as a "human, understandable, modest, kindly man, with all the reserve force needed to govern capably."

Mother of Eight in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing this note for my mother. She is not able to get any clothes for herself because we have eight children and father was sick and out of work for five months. It will be a very long time before mother will be able to get out of debt. She even has to stay away from church on Sundays because she is often without shoes. Like all good mothers she never thinks of herself; there are so many of us to care for. Also if you should see any shoes for my little sister who had infantile paralysis. She is very hard on her shoes and can wear only high ones. She has had four pairs since Easter, in order to keep her foot good. She wears size one or thirteen and a half. Mother takes forty-six and a seven shoe. We girls are thirteen, twelve, eight and three, and the boys are eleven, seven, five and one.

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing [illegible] for a worthy cause. An aged sickly woman, all alone, [illegible] in an attic tenement of four rooms, but she has no kitchen stove for when it gets cold. If some kind reader could only help her out by giving her a stove, she would be made very happy. She sold hers, and all she got for it was one dollar for junk, for it was all broken and useless. She is not strong and cannot afford to buy one. Try and send her a stove, and when she hears of it, let her know and I will do my best to pay freight. Also, if you could help her with clothes, it would be good. She wears size 44 or 46.

STEINMETZ PICTURES CONDITIONS 100 YEARS HENCE

By Herbert Kaufman

CHARLES P. STEINMETZ takes an imaginative squint at 2023, and newspapers feature his auguries on their front pages.

Not many soothsayers could share spotlight positions with Poincare's attempt to straddle conciliation with dissenting allies and fulfillment of treaty terms in the Ruhr; or a Summer hotel fire in which nine guests are burned to death and twenty-five horribly injured; or word of how two carloads of bandits hold up a roadhouse near Detroit, shoot several prominent business men, loot 150 diners and dancers, and afterward murder a policeman.

"We've more than enough problems to occupy immediate interest, such as the prevention of another coal strike, to which President Coolidge devotes an hour's conference with Chairman Hammond, as unions and mine owners resume their long-drawn dispute at Atlantic City.

Reasserted opposition to the bonus by the United States Chamber of Commerce, and an opinion from investigators that soldiers' compensation along suggested lines will cost the nation four billion dollars, tend to remind us that the troubles of the day are more than sufficient.

So let's take a squint at the man who can lift his voice above world wrangles, political furores, crime outcries, the deafening whir of propellers, and the wail of general tragedy.

You know, of course, he's the greatest electrical engineer alive. You probably remember from photographs the dwarfish, twisted body with which a childhood accident handicapped his start.

Steinmetz has never been known to own a hat nor been seen without a cigar.

He gave electricity its mathematics, he figures without pencil and paper—carries parallelepipedons and calculations, that would wear the type off an adding machine, on brain tablets.

Running for Mayor of Schenectady on the Socialist ticket and raising cactuses in a greenhouse are his two hobbies, the designing of turbines and the manufacture of synthetic lightning bolts, casual laboratory incidents.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON TURK EMBLEM IN SKY

"Please inform me at what time does the Turkish emblem appear in the sky. I saw it a good many years ago in Darjeeling, East India, the star standing in the centre of the crescent, but have never seen it since.—M. C. C., Oakland, Cal."

THIS curious inquiry brings a salty air from the sea of romance. It refers to the fact that the new moon, at the time of a stellar occultation, sometimes seems to bear a star within the curved arms of the illuminated crescent. At the same time it is instinct with the old legend that such a phenomenon in the sky, mimicking the star-and-crescent emblem, is prophetic of a coming advance of Turkish power.

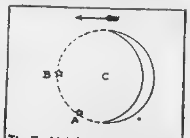
It is a case in which a taking superstition comes to the support of a specious error of eyesight, or of visual judgment, and renders the error ineradicable.

But let us see how much excuse there can be found for such an error. It is of a kind that all of us are apt to be victims of in some form. Look at our outline picture of the new moon. The bow is bent toward the direction of the sun. Only a crescent-shaped portion of the moon is illuminated (as seen from the earth); the remainder of its globe, not reached by the sunlight, is indicated, in outline, by the dotted circle continuing the curve of the crescent.

Notice that, as drawn, the radius of the illuminated crescent appears to be larger than that of the dotted circle, although in fact both must have the same radius since both are parts of the circumference of the same globular body. The greater apparent radius of the crescent is an effect of irradiation of light.

Now let a star lie exactly in the path of the moon travelling eastward through the sky. In the picture the moon is moving in its orbit toward the left. The star, if at B, lies almost centrally on the moon's track, and when the dark edge of the advancing moon reaches it it will disappear at the point B, being "occulted" by the opaque lunar globe passing over it.

In such a position the star is equi-distant from the points of the crescent, and the effect of the magnification of the curve of the crescent is less than it would be if the star were in such a position as A. Still, even when the occulted star is at or near the point B, it is very apt to appear to the eye to be nearer to the centre of the moon, C, than are the points of the crescent.



The Turkish Emblem in the sky

The result is, of course, that the star seems to be within the circle that would be formed by extending the curve of the crescent around the dark part of the moon. And when the star occulted happens to be one of the first magnitude, or a planet of the brilliance of Jupiter of Venus, the spectacle is truly admirable, and perhaps every observer not particularly careful to correct his impressions would afterward declare that he had seen the crescent moon embracing a star.

THREE-MINUTE TRIPS

ONE BATH IN LIFETIME

By Temple Manning

SOME of the finest specimens of the human race are the natives of Rhodesia, the most uncivilized section even of Africa.

This seems extraordinary when the traveler discovers in what frightfully unhealthy conditions they live, and that they break nearly every law of hygiene.

Their endurance and ability to develop such splendid bodies with a remarkable resistance against disease, is laid to the fact that it is simply a case of the "survival of the fittest."

The menu of the Rhodesian native is startling. Field mice, frogs and crocodiles are particularly relished, while the chicken, which breeds well and in great numbers in that part of the world, is not considered fit to eat. The natives were astounded to see some explorers sit down to a tasty dinner of roast chicken.

Clothes are not a serious consideration with these people, although each gives great thought to his personal appearance.

The most popular decoration is an elaborate headdress which is achieved by plastering mud and beeswax thickly in the bushy mop of black wool. Not content with this as a dressing for the coiffure, which raises the head to great heights, thereby causing the wearer to be more dignified and warlike, the native studs the mass with brass-headed nails—this is the height of fashion at the present day in Rhodesia.

But their use of mud—red clay preferred—does not end with the head. No, indeed. The entire black body is covered with this substance.

Strangely when it is put on, it is put on to stay. There may be many layers added during the lifetime of the wearer, but the original layer remains unless by chance the proud wearer falls in the water.

Unless such an accident occurs—for the native would never go into the water of his own free will—his body never knows the water.

At Right: Irene Castle in Her Gorgeous Butterfly Dance Costume Which She Did NOT Wear at the Lady Cunard Ball.

LONDON.

IF Irene Castle, the American dancing beauty, had taken each lord and lady of the English nobility across her knee and briskly spanked them, the effect on Britain's proud peerage could have been no more emphatic than what Mrs. Castle actually did at Lady Cunard's masquerade ball.

Piccadilly is still chuckling over the story of how slender, dainty Mrs. Castle, famous as "the best dressed woman in the world," ambled into the huge ballroom of the Cunard country house in Leicestershire, all blacked up in the role of "Aunt Dinah from Dixie!"

And along with the chuckles, Piccadilly stage folk, especially the Americans among them, are wagging their heads and chirping, "Three cheers for Irene! She served the stingy blighters right!"

For behind the apparently innocent "mammy" pose of Mrs. Castle was a deliberate rebuke to certain titled personages dubbed by overseas performers the "Something-for-Nothing Club." And behind the rebuke was a feud of many years' standing between society and the stage.

London society leaders, like those in America, frequently lionize the men and women of the stage and screen. Especially if the star be from a foreign country and is only celebrated enough, he or she is showered with invitations to exclusive homes in Mayfair.

Thus, while Chaliapin, the Russian basso, Celcile Sorel, of the Comedie Francaise, and other prominent singers and players of the Continent were feted by blue-bloods while they were in the United States, society in London seemed just as eager to entertain the Talmadge sisters, the Dolly sisters, the Duncan sisters, Pauline Lord and other performers who from time to time have made London their mecca.

The visitors generally were very flattered. It was gratifying to receive an invitation to Lady Ribblesdale's reception, or to be asked to meet the Spanish ambassador and his wife at the town house of Lady Belper. Once, two little American dancers, guests of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, were monopolized for hours by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York!

But bass rumbles and soprano cheeps began to go up from Piccadilly. For the "lions" and "lionesses" perceived that more than once there was a joker in the deck. Especially did the singers and dancers grumble—it was getting so one might as well stay at the theatre and perform, as to attend a function in fashionable London!

It was still gratifying to be lionized, but it was not so gratifying to be borne off from a tete-a-tete or a tea-table and be asked to warble or waltz for the delectation of the other guests.

"Dancing is my stock in trade just as much as meat is the butcher's," complained one attractive American girl, after an experience of this sort. "Why should I strut my stuff for nothing, just because this old lady happened to be married to an earl? She wouldn't ask her caterer to furnish her food free, would she? No—but it's easy to pick on stage people!"

So whispered the stars among themselves. Saying what they thought out loud, however, was a different matter. It was annoying, when one was a guest in a private home, to have the hostess beam and twitter, "Oh, won't you sing something, my dear?" But it was scarcely possible to snap back, "No, indeed! Singing is what they pay me a thousand dollars a night to do!"

There was nothing for it but to beam back and sing, or else to be wise in time and avoid affairs where embarrassing situations could arise. Yet "regrets" might mean offending some of the shining lights of the British aristocracy. And what little actorine wanted to do that? It really seemed the stage celebrities would continue to give society "something for nothing" as long as society snapped the whip.

And then Lady Cunard announced her masquerade ball. The musical arbiter of England, as she is known, is famous for her parties. And the ball was planned to out-glitter even her sensational "floral dance" of a few years ago, when guests seized wreaths and sprays from the tables, draped themselves in flowers, and pirouetted barefoot from room to room.

Irene Castle was dancing at the Embassy Club, a society rendezvous. She was getting $1,000 a night, it was reported. To Mrs. Castle came Lady Cunard. To Mrs. Castle Lady Cunard said, "Oh, won't you come to my bal masque?" And to Lady Cunard Mrs. Castle replied, "I'll be simply delighted!" So far, so good. But with the next word Lady Cunard revealed "the joker."

"By the way," she cooed, "I won't have you announced in the usual way when you arrive. I've arranged for a spotlight. The doorway will be suddenly darkened, and then the light will be thrown on you as you enter. And perhaps you'll do one of your charming dances, Mrs. Castle?"

Perhaps Mrs. Castle would. At least, she didn't say she wouldn't. But she must have done a lot of deep—and peppery—thinking. For, on the night of the bal masque, when the nobility of half England was assembled in the ballroom of Nevill-Holt Manor, and when the rumor was wafting from lip to lip, "Mrs. Castle is to dance!" and when Lady Cunard was nodding her head in confirmation, and when the doorway was darkened according to plan, and the spotlight shone as scheduled, in breezed Irene Castle, sure enough!

But—she breezed in with her beauty hidden from view in black cork!

Lady Cunard had "ordered" (she told her guests) the beautiful Castle butterfly dance; she got (to their amazement and her own) this!

Piccadilly says that Mrs. Castle, at first angry enough to leave Lady Cunard's bal masque in the lurch, at the eleventh hour had an inspiration. Florence Mills, the colored dancer, was in London. She borrowed Florence Mills' costume. And thus, as "Aunt Dinah from Dixie," where Lady Cunard had expected a sylph from fairyland, Mrs. Castle made her comical entrance.

What will be the sequel to the "spanking?" Piccadilly isn't sure, but the wags are wagering six to one that it will be a long, long time before another London hostess asks another American star to "do her stuff"—gratis.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A PROMINENT physician says the reason a lot of people don't sleep well at night is that they don't dress correctly when they retire.

ACCORDING to him you should be just as careful about your appearance in bed as when you're on the street.

ONE society man stayed awake six hours wondering if his pajamas were in style.

HE spent three days looking through a book of etiquette trying to find out what kind of collar and tie to wear with a night shirt.

ANOTHER bird wrote to his doctor and asked him whether he should wear black or brown shoes in bed.

HE also wanted to know if it was proper to carry a cane while he was sleeping.

VERY few men know it, but its extremely vulgar to take your coat off in bed.

NO gentlemen would ever go to sleep in his shirt sleeves.

OF course nobody would see him, but his suspenders would be liable to scratch the woodwork.

ONE guy said he always dressed in the height of fashion when he retired because he was a somnambulist.

HE claimed that three or four times he retired in his bed room and woke up on Fifth avenue.

HE said he'd have been embarrassed to death if he hadn't had his evening clothes on

HE anticipated walking in his sleep so he wears black pajamas

HE also wears a derby hat while he sleeps. If he ever dies in bed they'll find him all ready for the undertaker.

THE only thing they'd have to do would be to put on his gloves and open the front door.

ONE guy wore so many clothes in bed at night that he had to undress when he got up in the morning.

SO if you can't get to sleep this evening maybe its because you're not dressed correctly and your conscience is bothering you.
